Many choose to write TET over UPSC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WITH the Karnataka Teacher Eligibility Test (TET) and the Union Public Services Commission (UPSC) Prelims 2020 clashing on Sunday, many preferred to take the former over the Central competitive examinations.

As there were only two centres — Bengaluru and Dharwad — for the UPSC prelims, most candidates who had registered for both the competitive exams preferred taking the TET, mainly because of uncertainties over when the next TET will be held. The UPSC Prelims are conducted annually, but was delayed until October 4 this year due to the pandemic.

As many as 2,04,441 students attempted the TET, recording 84 per cent attendance. The figures for UPSC Prelims attendance across the state (mainly in Bengaluru and Dharwad) were still being compiled, but officials admitted that it was thin. P2

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi and Punjab CM Amarinder Singh participate in a tractor rally in Punjab on Sunday | AFP

Will bin farm laws if Cong wrests Centre, says Rahul

Attacks Modi, says he is only working to facilitate a few corporates; questions the hurry to pass legislations in RS without due process

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FORMER Congress president Rahul Gandhi on Sunday described the three recently passed farm sector reform Acts as black laws, saying the day his party comes to power at the Centre, all three would be scrapped and consigned to the wastepaper basket.

Addressing a rally at Badni Kalan in Moga as part of his three-day 'Save Farming Yatra' before joining a tractor rally that wound its way through Moga and Ludhiana districts, Rahul described the Centre as a puppet of corporate biggies like the Adanis and the Ambanis.

He charged that Prime Minister Narendra Modi had misled the nation for the past six years and had only served the interests of two to three large corporate houses of his billionaire friends.

Rahul cited demonetisation, the goods and services tax (GST) regime and the debt and tax waiver of big industrialists amid the pandemic as Modi's favour to the corporate leaders, charging that the poor and the farmers did not get even a rupee's aid.

"What was the need to implement these farm laws amid Covid-19? The Prime Minister says laws are being framed for farmers. If that is the case, why didn't you discuss them openly in the House?" he questioned. He was referring to the hurried passage of the bills in the Rajya Sabha amid ruckus through voice vote.

The new laws, Rahul argued, were aimed at eventually dismantling the minimum support price (MSP) mechanism and the Food Corporation of India (FCI) procurement system, which would break the backbone of the farmers, just as the British had done to seize control of India.

While the tried and tested system that stands on the three pillars of MSP, food procurement and mandis does need reforms, the Congress will allow it to be destroyed, he said.

Earlier, Punjab Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh labelled the Centre's approach to agriculture as one that would kill farmers and Punjab.

"India used to borrow from across the world to feed its people till Punjab farmers took the charge of feeding them," he claimed. He said the fight will continue till the laws are amended and a written Constitutional guarantee given on MSP and FCI. P10

Centre will eventually kill MSP, warns Capt

Chief Minister Capt Amarinder Singh said he feared the Centre might pay MSP for a couple of crops, but would eventually scrap it. "Attempts were being made to stifle the collective voice of the farmers, who had come together in this fight," he said

Pressure to order judicial probe

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

THREE new pressure points emerged on Sunday in the horrific gang-rape and murder of a Hathras girl that has left the nation horrified. While her family pushed for a judicial probe and the political class joined their call for the District Magistrate Praveen Kumar Laxkar's transfer, the counter consolidation of upper caste members claiming the four arrested youth in the case had been framed, was equally noteworthy.

A day after the state government recommended a CBI probe, the victim's brother changed tack, demanding a judicial probe instead. "It doesn't matter who investigates the matter, our questions are still unanswered. Why has no action been taken against the Hathras DM, who misbehaved with my family members and tried to threaten them? We want justice, we want a probe monitored by a Supreme Court judge," he said.

SP, RLD attempt to storm Hathras village

SP and RLD leaders tried to barge into the victim's Boolgarhi village on Sunday along with hundreds of supporters after breaking barricades. The district police had to use force to disperse them

His demand was echoed by BSP chief Mayawati and Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra, who sought immediate action against the DM. Mayawati said no impartial inquiry into the matter would be possible if the DM stays in the saddle.

Amid mounting pressure, upper caste mahapanchayats are being held in different parts on a daily basis to try to change the narrative. A mahapanchayat held on Sunday drew hundreds of upper caste members from around 30 villages. Hailing the government's recommendation for a CBI probe, they questioned the objections of the victim's family to the narco-analysis and polygraphic tests as well.

Meanwhile, a Special Investigation Team recorded the statements of the victim's family. P9

Ram Vilas Paswan has heart surgery

Union minister and LJP patron Ram Vilas Paswan (74) underwent heart surgery in Delhi, his son Chirag said on Sunday. He had to undergo heart surgery due to sudden developments on Saturday evening. It forced him to cancel a party meeting and rush to his father's side, Chirag tweeted. If needed, he will undergo another surgery in a few weeks, he added

Fratricide looms in Bihar as LJP exits NDA

MANISH ANAND & RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi/Patna

THE Bihar political script changed a tad on Sunday with NDA ally Lok Jan Shakti Party (LJP) deciding to go it alone in the state Assembly elections. Stating that the LJP will seek a BJP-led government in Bihar, the Chirag Paswan-led outfit said it will field nominees against the JD(U) in 143 seats.

Hours before the Central Election Committee (CEC) of the BJP met to clear its list of party nominees, the LJP left the NDA at the state level citing "ideological differences with the JD(U)".

"There's no bad blood between the BJP and the LJP. The victorious candidates of the party after the polls will support a BJP-LJP government," the LJP said in a statement. After the BJP's CEC meeting, there were indications that the seat-sharing formula could be announced in Patna soon.

The decision of the LJP to go solo could hurt Chief Minister Nitish Kumar's JD(U). "This decision of the LJP is aimed at pruning Nitish Kumar's political stature amid anti-incumbency. It will harm the performances of JD(U) without harming the electoral prospects of the BJP," said Dr R K Sinha, a prominent political analyst in Bihar.

Within the LJP, the wily Nitish Kumar's 'Mahadalit plank' is seen as an attempt to cut the Paswan family to size as he is promoting former chief minister Jitan Ram Manjhi. While the LJP claims to represent the state's 16% Dalit constituency as well as the Bhumihars, the JD(U) and the BJP have been making significant inroads into their support base.

Chirag Paswan is itching to lead Bihar and wants to test the political waters now. Thus far, the LJP has contested elections in alliances, mindful of the limitation of its support base, with his father Ram Vilas Paswan generally managing to stay on the winning side.

While a little amused, the BJP, too, will be keenly watching Paswan junior's moves. P10

C T Ravi quits as minister, readies for national role

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA Tourism Minister C T Ravi became the first minister in the one-year-old B S Yediyurappa Cabinet to tender his resignation. Recently elevated as BJP national general secretary, Ravi, who heads the Tourism, Kannada and Culture ministries, submitted his resignation in keeping with the party's 'one-man-one-post' policy.

Ravi, who has worked as deputy in-charge in Tamil Nadu, Puducherry, Andaman and Nicobar during the 2019 Lok Sabha elections, is expected to be made in-charge general secretary of the same states and UTs. He had also worked as election joint in-charge for Tamil Nadu in the 2016 Assembly election, under now BJP national general secretary (organisation) B L Santhosh. D Purandareswari, Lok Sabha MP from Visakhapatnam, is expected to be named in charge of Karnataka, replacing Muralidhar Rao.

Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, however, is undecided on his accepting his resignation.

NEXT CORPS COMMANDERS' MEETING ON OCT 12

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE seventh round of India-China Corps Commanders meeting will be held on October 12, Army sources confirmed on Sunday.

"Our aim is clear that there should be an early disengagement," a senior Army officer said. The talks come after the 19th meeting of the Working Mechanism for Consultation and Coordination on India-China Border Affairs (WMCC) on September 30, in which the two sides had agreed to another round of Corps Commanders meet so that both sides can "work towards early and complete disengagement of the troops along the LAC".

During the sixth round of Corps Commanders meeting held on September 21, the two sides agreed to not send more troops to the frontline, refrain from unilaterally changing the situation on the ground and avoid taking any actions that may further complicate the tense situation.

Lt Gen DS Hooda (retd) said there are ground to believe that the seventh round of Corps Commanders meet will see a breakthrough.

TARGET VILLAGES

Get nutrition from your own backyard, govt will pay

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE State Government seems to have given some thought for food and it believes that growing your dietary needs in your own backyard can be rewarding.

All people have to do is plant it, grow it, eat it. The government has come up with the Nutrition Garden campaign, where it will pay money to individual families in villages to grow vegetables and fruits in their backyard to get nutritious food and generate additional income. The government will give Rs 2,600 per family for one time.

The Department of Rural Development and Panchayat Raj (RDPR) will target more than 60,000 rural families across the state under the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act (MNREGA) scheme. Till now, under the scheme, the department had been taking up works like lakes, roads and construction of sheds for cattle.

The department will give seedlings of perennial plants like drumsticks, papaya, curry leaves, lemon, fruits like chikku, mango, jackfruit, guava and pomegranate. This apart, depending on the space, people can also grow vegetables of their choice.

There are 6,027 Gram Panchayats in Karnataka and 10 families per panchayat have been chosen. The campaign, which started a few days back, is expected to complete the target by November-end. P5

Jumbos were electrocuted, reveals autopsy

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

The two dead elephants found floating in Tikkakonadahalli lake in Bannerghatta National Park were makhnas (tuskless males) and not females. The carcasses were brought out on Sunday around 10.30 am, and the postmortem revealed that they died of electrocution.

Dr Umashankar, assistant director, veterinary services, Bannerghatta Biological Park, said, "The two were electrocuted. They died 3-4 days ago and their internal organs have started decomposing. There were no external injuries. They were around 15-18 years of age." "Normally tuskers and makhnas are solitary elephants, but it is strange that the duo was together," he added.

Forest officials have booked a case against energy department under the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972. However, officials defended themselves, stating that the electricity poles were laid by the roadside along check-dams. Forest officials said the poles were in the water and had two damaged live wires running across the surface of the water.

A forest official said, "Elephants have been electrocuted in Kodagu region, but this is the first time we saw two elephants get electrocuted."

Expert panel will probe cause of KPCL plant blast

Yelahanka residents cite hazard, want unit to be shut permanently

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IT is not just the Karnataka Power Corporation Limited (KPCL) which is keeping a close watch on its Yelahanka gas-based power plant, which witnessed a blast early on Friday, but even the locals. An experts' committee, comprising officials from KPCL, Bharat Heavy Electricals Ltd (BHEL) and General Electric (GE), is being constituted to investigate the mishap.

While the officials are waiting for a report to buttress their claim that it was a freak accident, locals want the plant shut down for good. Members of the Yelahanka Puttenahalli Lake and Bird Conservation Trust have already filed an interlocutory application before the National Green Tribunal, and hope that the probe report will strengthen their case.

On October 2, the 370 MW gas-based power plant was supposed to start production of about 20-30 MW when there was a blast in a turbine around 3.30 am which left 15 engineers with burns. Following the incident, the plant has been shut indefinitely.

K C Venugopal, Technical Director of KPCL, told The New Indian Express that the plant has been closed down at the moment. An expert team, comprising KPCL, BHEL and GE official, will visit the site. On Saturday, a team of BHEL officials had already visited the site. The expert team is likely to visit the plant on Monday or Tuesday, after which a report on the exact cause that led to the accident will be submitted, he said.

Meanwhile, the residents around the 370 MW plant are keeping a close watch on the site and making notes to submit before the National Green Tribunal and other legal forums.

"The plant should not be at its present location as it is dangerous. It poses a lot of health hazards and the fire incident is only proof of that. Cases are already being heard by the NGT regarding environmental clearances, but now we are also planning to move the High Court citing safety reasons," said a resident of Yelahanka.

Meanwhile, the Yelahanka police have said they will not be carrying out any probe as a case had already been filed terming it as an accident.

TET more accessible for candidates than UPSC

THE TET, which was held at 886 centres across the state, was more accessible for the candidates than the UPSC Prelims, although an option to change the centre was provided for the candidates on a first-come-first-served basis.

Aspirants for civil services under UPSC had pinned their hopes on the competitive exams being postponed after some of them had petitioned the Supreme Court. However the top court, on Wedensday last, refused to postpone the UPSC examination, leaving students with little choice.

Candidates leave after writing the Teacher Eligibility Test | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

"I chose to write the TET over UPSC, as one does not know when the next TET will be held and posts called for. The UPSC exams, on the other hand, are held annually," said an aspirant in Bengaluru.

"Some students had even written to the UPSC in September to postpone the examination scheduled for October 4, when the TET examination dates were announced, and the dates were clashing. However students had got no response from the commission until the apex court's decision," he added.

TET Paper-1, which was attempted by Diploma in Education (DEd) holders, was easier for the candidates than Paper-2 attempted by BEd graduates as well as DEd holders. Paper-1 was attempted by 74,976 candidates while 1,47,307 wrote Paper-2.

Covid-19-positive candidates were allowed to write both the papers, and each district was mandated to have one Covid Care Centre for those infected to write the examination.

UPSC aspirants taking the prelims exams had to wear masks, carry a santizer bottle and maintain social distance.

Hathras: Dalit forums to hold protest today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CONDEMNING the Hathras incident, Dalit organistions will protest across the state on Monday.

State convener of Karnataka Rajya Dalitha Rajya Sangharshana Samithi Laxminarayana Nagawar told TNIE that protests will be organised across 23 districts in the state for the dismissal of Uttar Pradesh government. If no action is taken, the state organisation will join the national-level committee for an agitation strike across the country, he added.

In another protest against the Hathras incident, people from different walks of life said that despite a nation-wide outrage on the death of the 19-year-old Dalit girl, the response of the Uttar Pradesh police has been spine chilling and inhuman.

The UP police have shown their casteist and anti-woman side by destroying the evidence, burning the body of the victim and announcing that there was no rape. Their action will lead to loss of justice, destroying the basic human rights enshrined in the Constitution, they said.

They also sought justice for anti-CAA protesters, who are being targeted and falsely accused of violence in Delhi that erupted in February. They are being charged under the UAPA for their peaceful protests against the Citizenship (Amendment) Act, they added.

They accused the BJP government of stifling dissent and freedom of expression, when dissent and non-violent movements have been the foundation of the freedom struggle.

Activist Prasanna Heggodu too took part in the protest.

BBMP to clean up railway tracks in city

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

DUE to an increase in the amount of garbage dumped along railway tracks and on the request of the Railways, the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) will clear the waste along the tracks in the city. They will also deploy Marshals and place cameras at strategic locations to check those littering in these areas before penalising them.

"We inspected the areas from Kengeri to Majestic and identified over 20 such spots where garbage has piled up. The engineers have been asked to identify those areas where garbage is not being collected from door-to-door which is forcing people to throw it along the tracks. In two weeks time, these areas will be cleaned up," BBMP Special Commissioner, Solid Waste Management, D Randeep, told TNIE. He said that the Railways has also been requested to construct walls near the tracks to prevent people from throwing garbage. After this stretch, the civic body will start cleaning the Yeshwanthpur stretch connecting to RR Nagar and the Hoodi, Whitefield and KR Puram stretch.

The BBMP took this decision after a coordination meeting with the Chief Secretary. The Chief Secretary received a letter from the Divisional Railway Manager asking for help to clear the garbage along the tracks.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

05th October : I was reminded again recently of the time a few years ago when I was out checking on the stars, and three orange lights appeared in the distance and flew over me totally silently at a height of about fifty feet. It was quite a shock, I can tell you! It was some time before I worked out that it was probably birds reflecting the city lights with an unusual luminosity - and not space aliens!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Today's lively planetary picture could easily pass you by. However, once you start talking about your real feelings, or even dare to think about them, you may open the flood gates to a tide of emotion. Just watch out that you don't end up throwing money away in pursuit of false promises.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
There is a very high chance of a lucrative financial offer. Stop and think, though, for this is one of those times when a wonderful opportunity could vanish as fast as it appears. Opposition from partners should diminish as the day passes, so someone who has been bothering you may quietly slip away.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
This is a time for action but not for commitment. One possible course is to surrender to fate and allow circumstances to dictate the pace. This requires considerable courage, for you must learn to trust in the future. That's difficult I know, but it's essential.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
The possibility of secret emotions and fantasies now seems to be at a height. There may be an element of deception, but very much more noticeable are your idealistic tendencies - including your admirable belief in a better world - and these should sustain you.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Your social stars are extremely powerful, and this is one of those times when, at your most extreme, you may fall in love one minute, and then out of love the next. At the very least you should be shuffling your friends and re-arranging engagements.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
A stressful and challenging Keep a close watch on professional developments. A major opportunity will come and go very quickly, and it will be up to you to seize the moment. You may even have a chance to opt out of a commitment in which you always thought you were trapped. But do you really want to be free? That could be what you're about to find out.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The urge to travel, or to be somewhere else, may be absolutely irresistible. If you have the freedom to take off at a moment's notice, do so. Otherwise you'll have to find whatever way you can to bring a little inspiration into your life. I'm sure you'll manage.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Money makes the world go around is one old familiar saying with fresh relevance. Another is 'money doesn't talk, it swears', which may sum up your mood today! The fact is, though, that a little careful forethought will avert any problem the stars can throw at you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
If today is all sweetness and light, you're missing out on something. But, if there should be any signs of imminent crisis, face up to them and get to grips with as many problems as you can. In so doing, you'll clear the air and lift a weight from your shoulders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Much depends on your ability to cope with routine daily chores. The most you can expect from today's stars is the chance to change jobs, and the best advice you can be offered is to tackle overdue tasks before the pressure becomes irresistible. Oh, and keep financial pressures in perspective.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Be prepared to do a U-turn. In fact be prepared to do two! It's important that you have as much freedom as you need to change your mind and then change it back again. This is such an important time in your personal development that you can't be constrained by what other people think or expect.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
It may be difficult, but you have to decide who you love, where you want to live and also probably what you want to do for work. Important questions indeed, but no body ever said that, having made up your mind, you should stick to your guns. Whatever you do today you can undo tomorrow!

SLOW RECOVERY

Hospital stay longer for comorbid patients

IFFATH FATIMA & RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

UNLIKE asymptomatic and moderately-ill Covid patients, who recover within seven to 10 days, a 70-year-old man with comorbidities and Covid-19 infection in Bengaluru took two months to recover and was finally discharged from hospital last Monday.

"The patient's lungs were severely infected and it took him a longer time to recover. He was initially on ventilator, then non-invasive ventilation, and after that, oxygen was given on and off. Patients with severe infection in the lungs take more than 25 days to recover. Not just in the elderly, this is observed in younger patients too," said Dr Pratik Patil, Consultant, Infectious Diseases, Fortis Hospital.

> Elderly patients must maintain their sugar and blood pressure levels so that they don't develop severe complications when infected with Covid
> An expert

This is just one example of how hospital stay can be prolonged for patients with severe Covid infection and comorbidities. Patients with diabetes, history of cardiac issues, pre-existing lung disorders like chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, and chronic kidney disease requiring dialysis, undergo lengthy stays in hospital. The peak of the infection is between 7 and 10 days.

However, in cases with comorbidities, the peak is observed in three-four days, when the symptoms, including breathlessness, worsen quickly. Their hospital stay can last anywhere from two weeks to a month, unlike regular Covid patients who stay for 10 days.

"This happens as comorbidities reduce the immunity of a patient, increasing the severity of the virus. They may recover from the Covid infection in two weeks but post Covid, symptoms persist. They may suffer lung fibrosis, their sugar levels fluctuate and they could suffer secondary bacteria and fungal infections, requiring oxygen and antibiotic therapy. At times, they may be sent home with oxygen support so that they don't suffer from hypoxia (inadequate oxygen supply)," said Dr Suchismitha Rajanya, consultant, Internal Medicine, Manipal Hospital.

Elderly patients must maintain their sugar and blood pressure levels so that they don't develop severe complications when infected with Covid, experts say.

COVID PUTS BRAKES ON TB-FREE KARNATAKA PLAN

With only one or two medical officers and 38 programmes to implement, no time or resources to manage tuberculosis

RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

THE pandemic has put the brakes on the state health and family welfare department's plans for Kshaya Muktha Karnataka (Tuberculosis-free Karnataka). The plan is to take place at the grassroot levels, that is, TB-free gram panchayats.

The programme would involve inter-department coordination between the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj, Health, Labour, Urban Development, Woman and Child Development department, other government agencies, involving NGOs as well.

"Community participation is needed to prevent delay in diagnosis of TB. Gram panchayats will be the principal stakeholders of all TB activities to realize the dream of a zero TB village. The panchayat will be the focal point to get suspected patients for early diagnosis as it is a curable disease," said a health department official.

Currently, Primary Health Centres are the first point of public health care. But with only one or two medical officers and 38 different health programmes to implement, there is little room to focus on TB.

Just as Covid has become a household topic of discussion, the idea is to make discussion around TB the same in Karnataka. This project is on the lines of PM Narendra Modi's target of making India TB free by 2025.

"Panchayats will help identify vulnerable populations, ensure screening for TB, indulge in social mobilization and help reach out to people. There is also a need to destigmatize TB. For all this, cooperation is required from grassroot level politicians and administration of the government," the official said, adding that in urban areas, the misconception among well-off sections of society is that they cannot contract TB.

Discussion on implementing this project with various gram panchayats has brought an overwhelming response and support from the members. However, the health department is unable to proceed with the plan with all the attention and resources of the state government focused on fighting Covid.

From January to September this year, the state has reported 45,839 cases of TB, of which 6,336 patients were cured and 2,634 patients died. The deaths recorded here could be directly due to TB, comorbidities or road traffic accidents.

As per the WHO, every year, 10 million people contract TB. Despite being a preventable and curable disease, 1.5 million people die from TB each year--making it the world's top infectious killer.

At 1.15 lakh, highest number of patients under treatment in Karnataka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE number of Covid-19 patients currently under treatment is at its highest in Karnataka with 1,15,574 Covid-19-positive persons in hospitals or home isolation. This figure has been consistently rising on the trot since October 1 when the state recorded 1,10,412 active cases, followed by 1,11, 986 active cases on October 2, and going up to 1,12,783 active cases on October 3.

Experts in the state Covid-19 war room attribute the increasing number of active cases to high number of tests being conducted across the state.

Karnataka's active cases first crossed the one lakh mark on September 10 when the number touched 1,01,537 cases, after which it it fell only to cross the one-lakh mark again on September 16, 17 and 18. It dropped again briefly, only to rise and remain above the one-lakh-mark since September 26.

As per the war room data, active cases have been growing since July. Bengaluru alone has 86,472 people in active quarantine. This is followed by Mysuru, Dharwad, Hassan and Davanagere.

Karnataka saw 10,145 new Covid-19 cases on Sunday which took the state tally up to 6.40 lakh (6,40,661) cases. There were 67 deaths reported, taking the death toll to 9,286 cases.

The top five districts in terms of the day's Covid cases are Bengaluru with 4,340 cases, Mysuru with 1,037 cases, Hassan with 307 cases, Ballari with 304 cases and Dakshina Kannada with 293 cases. Of the active cases, 847 patients are high risk and are in ICUs.

However, a good sign is the mortality rate dropping — to 1.44 percent — while the recovery rate is 80.50 per cent.

Experts have blamed the rising number of cases on lifting of the lockdown, and lackadaisical public attitude by not wearing masks and violating Covid-19 safety norms.

Covid ruined students' dreams of studying abroad, says survey

PREEJA PRASAD @Bengaluru

The negative impact of the pandemic is felt despite Indian students' high propensity towards international travel, says a survey. An analysis report on the future of education by EDHEC Business School says that 91% of those surveyed declared that they will probably limit their travel in the years to come because of the pandemic.

Students also believe the pandemic will impact the delivery of higher education for years to come as 82% estimate growth in disciplines like healthcare (66%) and social economics (51%). Also, 91% agree teaching will be dispensed remotely — at least partially (45%).

TNIE spoke to students and found what made them decide to cancel their plan to study abroad and take up courses within the country itself.

Aparna Mammen has now taken up her postgraduation in Public Health in the city. "I had plans to study in Sweden but banks weren't available for loans. Travelling wasn't possible either. Since employment levels are quite low now, it made no sense to pay huge fees, study the course online from India and not get a job," she said.

"I took up an MBA in a Mumbai university but studying online from Bengaluru itself. Since everything is digitalised, we can access the same material from here itself. There is no need to travel abroad," says Tara Mathew who cancelled her plans to study in the UK.

The quantitative research was carried out in five countries with 5,246 respondents — India, UK, France, USA, and South Africa. Of the 1,071 Indian respondents, Bengaluru weighs 11 per cent in the sample. India ranks their higher education system as satisfactory -- whether concerning the education they personally received (86%, including 43% very satisfied) or current higher education system (85% say it is high quality, 48% fully agree).

Students also perceived concrete consequences of involving new technologies in higher education. Digitisation can supplement theoretical education via virtual reality (93%, including 57% fully agree).

However, the role of teachers remains critical. While students believe digitisation is necessary, the study shows that it doesn't diminish the importance of teachers and learning methods.

WATCH THINK ACT

Disappointed over not being picked by the JDS to contest from the North-East Teachers' Constituency in the Legislative Council elections, M B Ambalagi, who was the general secretary (State unit) of the party, resigned from the party on Sunday

STRAWS IN THE WIND

CM's hush-hush resort visit!

Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa's sudden unplanned visit to a resort on the outskirts of Bengaluru on Sunday afternoon set off heavy political speculation. The CM, leaving behind his convoy and choosing to speed off in a lone vehicle to a resort in Devanahalli, set alarm bells ringing, especially when the State is facing bypolls to two assembly seats and elections to two Council seats in the coming weeks. Turns out the CM was hurrying to the resort to wish his great grandson a happy birthday. It was the party of Yediyurappa's daughter BY Padmavati's grandson.

Gandhi vs Shastri

Talk of political correctness. On Gandhi Jayanti, Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa offered floral tributes to the Mahatma and spoke to the media, but not before performing one duty. He first paid his respects to former PM Lal Bahadur Shastri, who shares his birth anniversary with Gandhi, but let's be honest, not many remember it as Shastri Jayanti. Some wondered at the correctness of Yediyurappa's gesture, and whether Shastri had suddenly gained in importance. After all, protocol holds prime place in the political world. But no such confusion in Delhi -- PM Narendra Modi headed off to Raj Ghat in the morning to pay his respects to the Father of the Nation.

'Huliya' tag sticks on

Siddaramaiah, it seems, is unable to shake off his 'Huliya' reputation. As he addressed party workers at the inaugural of Congress Bhavan in Belagavi on Friday, a loyalist let out a shout of support, hailing him as 'Huliya'. Siddaramaiah stopped him, saying that 'Raja Huli' (royal tiger) was in power -- meaning CM Yediyurappa -- and he was not the Huli. Hushing up the supporter, Siddaramaiah elaborated that BJP workers call Yediyurappa 'Raja Huli', while the people of the State call him, Siddu, 'Huliya' (tiger) out of love. This signature tag stuck to Siddaramaiah after a supporter at a 2019 bypoll campaign in Kagwad, Belagavi, responded to Siddu's every statement with a "Houdu Huliya!" and it went into a viral spiral.

Bigg Boss fame Diwakar to join Sira fray

Diwakar, runner-up of Bigg Boss Kannada Season 5, is set to take the plunge into politics — not the local vocal sort, but the big arena like the Sira bypoll, either as a nominee of a lesser-known party or an independent. The 31-year-old, an Ayurvedic products salesman, is originally from T Narasipura in Mysuru, was brought up in Bengaluru and schooled in Madikeri. He's had a fun run with a couple of Kannada and Telugu movies under his belt. Diwakar did his bit during the lockdown, distributing masks and sanitiser to truck drivers and the needy, and as he gained popularity, even got help from actors like Sudeep. All in all, he's managed to pop up in the headlines now and then.

"Instinctively, I'm a go-getter and wish to mingle with people, especially commoners, and will reach out to them in Sira," said Diwakar, claiming he is serious about elections. He was in the Bigg Boss house for 108 days, and the skills he acquired there should help him through real-life politics, big bosses and bigger ringmasters. Not for nothing is it called the political circus.

DK RAVI'S WIFE IN CONG, MAY GET TICKET

Party likely to pick Kusuma to contest from RR Nagar in bypoll; DKS says high command will decide on final list

KPCC president D K Shivakumar and ex-DyCM G Parameshwara with Kusuma, wife of late IAS officer D K Ravi. She joined Congress, in Bengaluru on Sunday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

LATE IAS officer D K Ravi's wife H Kusuma joined the Congress on Sunday, adding fuel to the speculation that she would be given the party ticket to contest from the Rajarajeshwari Nagar Assembly by-election.

Signifying the importance of the occasion, KPCC president D K Shivakumar, Congress Legislature Party leader Siddaramaiah and former Deputy Chief Minister G Parameshwara attended the ceremony to welcome Kusuma into the party.

In fact, Kusuma is living the dream of her father Hanumantharayappa, who wanted to contest from the same constituency in the 2018 assembly elections after Ravi's death, but was denied a ticket. Kusuma's name has been doing the rounds as the frontrunner for the seat, which will go to the polls on November 3.

The Congress, which has announced T B Jayachandra as the candidate for the Sira by-election, is yet to reveal the name of the candidate for Rajarajeshwari Nagar. "The high command will decide on the final name. We will only shortlist the names of probable candidates and send them," said Shivakumar, hinting that the party will pick a new face for RR Nagar. The seat was previously held by Munirathna, who won from the Congress but later joined the BJP. He is likely to be the saffron party candidate from the constituency.

Kusuma joining the party is of value to the Congress, which was criticised for its alleged mishandling of Ravi's suicide in 2015 when Siddaramaiah was the chief minister.

As many as 15 leaders from other parties and social organisations in Sira too joined the Congress on Sunday. Among them was Ravikumar Kalkere, a former JDS leader who wanted to contest from Sira. A host of local leaders including the president of Kunchatiga Sangha joined the party.

Party picks three for Council elections

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

Praveen Peter (left) will contest from Bengaluru Teachers' constituency and M Kuberappa from West Graduates' constituency

THE Congress state unit on Sunday announced its candidates for three of the four Legislative Council seats that will go for elections on October 28.

KPCC president D K Shivakumar gave away the 'B' forms to the three candidates — Sharanappa Mattur, Praveen Peter and R M Kuberappa.

Mattur, whose term ended earlier this year, has been renamed the party candidate for the North East Teachers' Constituency. Mattur, a strong candidate, will take on BJP's former MLC Shashil G Namoshi.

Praveen Peter has been picked to respresent the Bengaluru teachers' constituency and Kuberappa for the West Graduates'constituency.

The party is yet to name a candidate for the South-East Graduates' seat, but former JDS MLC Ramesh Babu is said to be the frontrunner.

Four seats in the council fell vacant after completion of the term of R Chowdareddy Thoopalli and Puttanna of JDS, S V Sankanur of BJP and Sharanappa Mattur of Congress in South-East Graduates', Bangalore Teachers, West Graduates' and North East Teachers' constituencies, respectively.

CM to hold crucial meet of jala nigams

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa has called four back-to-back meetings of important water resource organisations — Krishna Bhagya Jala Nigam, Visvesvaraya Jala Nigam, Cauvery Neeravari Nigam and Karnataka Neeravari Nigam — at his official residence Krishna on Monday afternoon, raising hopes that the state government will give the green signal to many major pending works that had been put on hold.

Officials from the water resources department said that there was pressure from the government not to take up major works because of financial constraints brought in by the Covid pandemic. The works had stalled since March, they said.

Water Resources Minister Ramesh Jarkiholi is expected to put his case before the CM to get the clearance for major projects. Monday's high-powered meeting will be attended by Chief Secretary T M Vijay Bhaskar, additional chief secretary, concerned principal secretaries and other important members.

A view of the Tungabhadra dam. CM B S Yediyurappa is due to hold a meeting on Monday on major irrigation projects

Officers pointed out since many sectors are opening up after the Covid freeze and there is some revenue coming into the state's coffers, they would get the nod for the projects.

■ Water resources department officials said there was pressure from the state government not to take up major works because of financial constraints brought in by the Covid pandemic

SOURCES close to Minister Ravi suggest that Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa has told Ravi that he will decide on it after the latter's New Delhi visit.

Ravi will visit the national capital on Monday for a meeting of all newly-appointed national general secretaries and stay on for a meeting on Tuesday of all newly-appointed office-bearers, both with party national president Jagat Prakash Nadda.

"With his resignation, Ravi has conveyed that his commitment primarily lies with the party. Whether it is accepted or rejected or taken up for consideration a month later makes little differencemy

The chief minister is said to be reluctant to accept his resignation just yet, lest it creates more rumblings in the cabinet and the state unit of the BJP.

Don't fall for tears of JDS leaders, says Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

"DON'T fall prey to tears shed by JDS leaders during election time," warned Congress Legislature Party leader and opposition leader in the Assembly Siddaramaiah, here on Sunday.

The JDS leaders have been using tears right from the time of Deve Gowda (who was the CM in 1994)

Siddaramaiah, CLP leader

Siddaramaiah, who was once with the JDS, told party workers, "The JDS leaders have been using tears right from the time of Deve Gowda (who was the CM in 1994)."

Speaking at a meeting of party leaders at the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee office, Siddaramaiah referred to a recent incident, where JDS leader H D Kumaraswamy is said to have shed tears ago.

Siddaramaiah's caution assumes significance with two Assembly by-polls round the corner. Especially at Sira, the contest has been traditionally between Congress and JDS.

Both the parties are under pressure to perform well in these by-elections as the JDS drew a blank and the Congress won only two of the 15 Assembly by-polls last time. constituencies that.

It was also humiliating for the Congress as 12 of those seats were held by its party members. Siddaramaiah told the party workers that the Congress has to defeat the JDS and BJP, and win both the by-elections. The JDS does not have the strength to form a government on its own, and has to depend on other parties to come to power.

Speaking about the JDS with which the Congress had shared an alliance for 14 months, Siddaramaiah alleged that there was an internal understanding between the JDS and BJP, and warned party workers to be cautious.

Political observers, who dissected the former chief minister's statement, said that it seemed conclusive, and dashes hopes of any plan of the opposition parties — Congress and JDS — to fight the bypolls jointly.

Jolt to JDS as ZP members' spouses jump parties

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@Tumakuru

THE JDS faced a big blow ahead of the Sira bypoll, with Kadugolla community ZP member Girija's husband joining the BJP on Saturday, and ZP president Latha's husband Kalkere Ravikumar joining the Congress on Sunday. He hails from the Kuruba community.

KPCC president D K Shivakumar and Opposition leader Siddaramaiah welcomed Ravikumar at the party office. Ravikumar was a strong contender for the JDS ticket, but was disillusioned as the party has reportedly finalised former minister late B Satyanarayana's wife Ammajamma's name.

His move came as a boost for the Congress and its nominee, former minister TB Jayachandra, as the party lost Modaluru ZP member Lakshmidevi's husband Narasimhamurthy to the BJP; he joined the saffron party on Saturday.

Ravikumar's move came as a boost for Congress and its nominee, former minister TB Jayachandra, as the party lost Modaluru ZP member Lakshmidevi's husband Narasimhamurthy to the BJP

In fact, the BJP and JDS are expected to bring down Latha from the ZP president's post by bringing in a no-confidence move against her and voting her out, on October 15. This gives an indication that the JDS and BJP could go in for a tacit alliance in the ensuing bypoll to Sira and Rajarajeshwari Nagar assembly constituencies.

There were widespread rumours about Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa and former Chief Minister HD Kumaraswamy coming to an understanding over this during their two recent one-on-one meetings, in the span of a month.

MLC elections: South-East Graduates' constituency to see hard, four-way contest

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Chitradurga/Davangere

THE election to the Legislative Council seat from the South-East Graduates' constituency is heating up with four candidates likely to be in the fray.

While the JDS is putting up its proven winning candidate, Chowdareddy Thoopalli, who defeated BJP's Dr Shivayogiswamy with a good margin last time, the Congress is likely to field Ramesh Babu, who had earlier won the MLC election from the teachers' constituency.

The BJP has picked Chidananda Gowda over D T Srinivas, who is Hiriyur BJP MLA Poornima's husband. A miffed Srinivas is now contesting the election as an independent.

The candidates are touring extensively through the constituency that is spread across Kolar, Chikkaballapur, Tumkauru, Chitradurga and Davangere-Harihar (undivided Chitradurga district).

JDS candidate for South-East Graduates' constituency Chowdareddy Thoopalli (centre) addresses voters in Kolar on Sunday

Chowdareddy is filing his nomination papers on October 8 and Srinivas on October 7. Chidananda has not yet revealed the date, while the Congress is yet to announce the candidature of Ramesh Babu.

Presenting his case, Chowdareddy told the media that during his six-year term, he worked hard for the rights and welfare of teachers, lecturers and graduates. He said that he raised issues of pay anomaly, promotion, faulty new pension scheme and empowerment of graduates.

"Despite our party not being in power, I raised these issues on the floor of the Council and also outside, ensuring that some justice is done to the teachers," he claimed.

He said that he has toured the constituency extensively and is confident of winning the election with a good margin of first-preference votes.

If elected, he said he will take up pending issues of pay anomaly for trained graduate teachers, PU college lecturers, high school teachers and UGC pay scale lecturers.

He demanded that the new pension scheme should be scrapped immediately, while the old scheme be introduced to all government employees. "The BJP has failed to resolve the issues faced by newly recruited government employees over pension, though the party is in power at the state and Centre," he said.

Andhra CM YS Jagan Mohan Reddy is likely to call on Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Tuesday to discuss issues related to the state. The meeting comes close on the heels of Jagan's meetings with Union Home Minister Amit Shah on September 22 and 23

Two Naval officers die in glider crash

Duo was on a sortie when glider developed a glitch; Southern Naval Command orders inquiry into incident

Sunil's marriage was fixed for December

Indian Navy Petty Officer (Electrical Air) Sunil Kumar was set to tie the knot in his hometown in Bhoj , in December, before the glider crash took away his life in Kochi on Sunday. "It was quite unfortunate and we are yet to recover from the shock," a colleague told TNIE. Sunil Kumar was an expert glider trainer with over six years of experience.

Gliding a recreational facility at centre

The Southern Naval Command opened the gliding facility in Kochi in 2008-09 as a recreational and adventure sport facility for its officers. "It's usually open every Saturday for the Navy officers. During the pandemic, the facility was opened every morning for some time," said a veteran officer.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

TWO Navy officers died when a power glider they were flying crashed here on Sunday morning. The Kochi-headquartered Southern Naval Command has ordered a probe into the incident.

The officers -- Lieutenant Rajiv Jha, 39, and Petty Officer (Electrical Air) Sunil Kumar, 29 -- were on a routine training sortie when the naval power glider developed a glitch and crashed near the Thoppumpady bridge in the vicinity of Kochi Naval Base around 7.15am.

Lt Rajiv Jha is a native of Dehradun, Uttarakhand, and Sunil Kumar is from Bhoj in Bihar.

The glider took off from INS Garuda, the Naval Air Station of Southern Naval Command here, at 7am. People who were out for a morning walk saw the glider crashing and informed the Harbour police. A Navy team rushed to the spot and shifted the two officers to INS Sanjeevani, the Navy hospital.

"The officers were critically injured and they were shifted to INS Sanjeevini in a Navy ambulance. But they were declared brought dead," said Navy Spokesperson Sridhar Warrier. "A Board of Inquiry has been ordered by the Southern Naval Command into the incident," an official statement from the defence wing said. The wreckage was salvaged and taken to the Kochi Naval Base.

An eyewitness told TNIE that Sunil Kumar was taken to the Navy Hospital in Cochin Port's ambulance while Rajiv was taken in the Navy ambulance. "Both of them were not moving while being taken to the hospital," the eyewitness said.

Meanwhile, an officer with the Harbour police said the glider had some defects, which led to the crash. "We found the mangled remains of the glider when we reached the spot. It's up to the Navy to investigate and find what went wrong with the glider. As far as we are concerned, a case of unnatural deaths has been registered," the officer said. He said the postmortem examination will be held on Monday, after which the bodies will be handed over.

DRUG PROBE

CCB raids five Bengaluru pubs

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Central Crime Branch (CCB) sleuths raided and searched five upscale pubs in the city late on Saturday night, following information that drugs were being regularly being supplied in those pubs.

Police said that the searches were conducted based on information provided by some of the accused in the Sandalwood drugs case. "They had taken the names of these five pubs particularly and revealed that drugs were available regularly at these places. Based on this information, search warrants were obtained from the court and the pubs were raided," an official said.

Five teams were formed and they raided the pubs, most of them located in the Central Business District (CBD), after 11 pm. "Though it was the weekend, there was not much of a crowd. We conducted the search and returned as no contraband was found. The managements of these establishments have been warned of stern action if drugs were supplied on their premises," the official added.

Incidentally, pubs have only recently been reopened, even as they are struggling to reclaim their lost business.

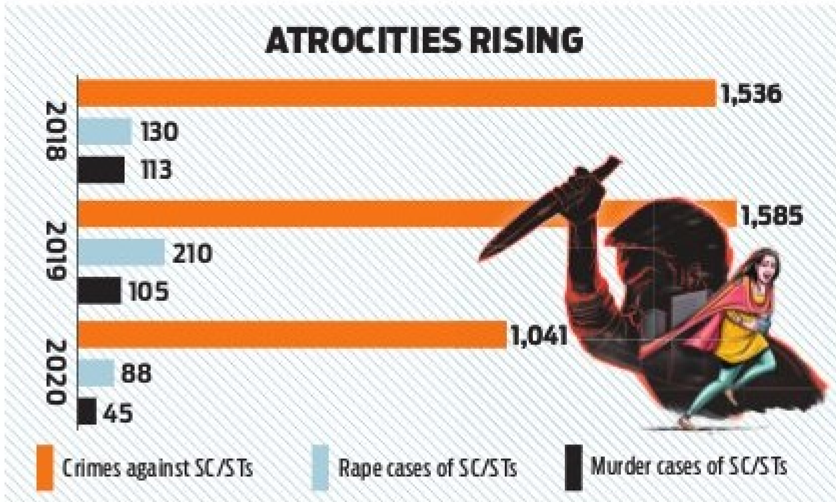
Sources said that although the latest information about drugs being sold in some high-end pubs was given out now, it was likely that this was happening even before the Covid-19 lockdown.

This as well as the exposure of drug rackets in the public domain, may have alerted perpetrators to keep away from these locations for the time being, said an officer while explaining why no contraband was found during the raids. The police refrained from naming the pubs raided.

61% JUMP IN RAPE OF SC, ST WOMEN IN A YEAR IN K'TAKA

KARTHIK K K @Mysuru

AT a time when the alleged rape and the killing of a 20-year-old Dalit girl in Hathras in Uttar Pradesh has caused an uproar across the country, data from the Karnataka State Police has revealed that 4,162 crimes against members of the SC/ST communities, including rape and murder, have been reported in Karnataka in the past three years.



The number of cases of rape of women belonging to the SC/STs in 2018 in the state was 130, which increased by 61.5% in just one year as nearly 210 cases were registered across various police stations in 2019. Meanwhile, offences under the SC and ST (prevention of atrocities act 1989) were 1,219 in 2018, 1,187 cases in 2019 and 899 in 2020 (till August 31).

Karnataka registered 428 rape cases of SC/ST women and 263 murders of SC/STs from January 2018 to August 31, 2020, where the accused are people from other castes.

While there has been a decline in crimes in the State amidst the pandemic and the lockdown, the data available shows that the atrocities against SC/STs did not see much change as the State registered 88 rape cases and 45 murder cases in the last eight months (January 1 to August 31 2020).

"It is sad that the crimes against SC/STs are not properly dealt with. The conviction rate is also low which I feel is due to the poor response mechanism and failure of the police, public prosecutors in collecting the required evidence. In most cases, police submit a 'B' report which indirectly provokes and gives confidence to the perpetrators and their aides to commit the same crime in future," said P Yashoda, State convenor for Committee for Monitoring and Strengthening SCs and STs (Prevention of Atrocities) Act in Karnataka.

"Most of the districts have not conducted the district vigilance and monitoring committee meetings which need to be mandatorily held every four months. In the last two years, even the state-level meeting in this regard has also not taken place," she said.

Police said that they raided Nazeer's house and Rs 80 lakh was seized. "Based on Nazeer's information, Ali was also arrested and another Rs 20 lakh seized from him. They admitted that they had paid Rs 2.5 lakh of valid tender to one Rehman and got Rs 1 crore demonetised currency," police said. ENS

CAMPAIGN MEANT TO HELP POOR FAMILIES

SPEAKING to TNIE, L K Ateeq, Principal Secretary, RDPR, said the purpose is to give benefit to those poor families who may not go out to work in the fields.

"The Nutrition Garden campaign is an attempt to encourage people in villages to take nutritious food. This apart, they can sell their surplus produce at the nearest market which will generate additional revenue. In Jharkand, a similar initiative is taken up, which targets the village self-help groups. But, in Karnataka, the government will help families,'' added Ateeq.

Not the least interesting feature of the Ajanta paintings is their extraordinary 'modernity' of spirit and execution. ... The draughtsmanship is amazing, and the knowledge of pose and gesture very wide

IT'S THE TURN OF A BIOLOGICAL VIRUS TO DISRUPT U.S. POLLS

When the most powerful leader in the world contracts the most insidious virus stalking the globe, a tsunami of uncertainty is a given. More so in a democracy where presidential elections are barely four weeks away. Such is the spin around the extent of US President Donald Trump's Covid-19 infection that the couple of videos he released since his hospitalisation, the health bulletin by his personal medical team, and the off-the-record statements by White House chief of staff Mark Meadows are at divergence, adding to confusion. Meadows's pessimism is contrary to the rosier picture presented by Trump and his physician, though the president looked distinctly pale in the second video. Reports of breathlessness on Friday and temporary external oxygen support heightened the worry, as he is 74 and clinically obese, putting him in the high risk category. The next few days would be important as the virus is known to peak between the seventh and 10th day of its onset. Besides, the tension of him trailing by a full seven points behind his Democrat challenger Joe Biden after their first television debate last week could add to his stress and delay recovery, which in the best case scenario could take at least two weeks of quarantine.

The option of whipping up a sympathy wave for the ailing but working president by his campaign managers went out of the window as he himself had dissed the virus, sought to underplay its impact and claimed it would disappear soon. Trump is already being roasted for misleading the nation on the coronavirus that has so far killed more than two lakh people and infected over 76 lakh in the US. Putting off the polls would need the concurrence of Congress, which appears improbable at the moment. Also, the fate of the second economic stimulus package and that of his Supreme Court nominee hang in the balance.

If Trump does emerge healthy before election day, he can be expected to brag about beating the bug with an I-told-you-so smirk. Whatever happens between now and November 3, the virus will stay at the centre of the discourse. Russian, Chinese and North Korean hackers can pack up. A biological bug has done their job of disrupting polls.

CHALLENGE TO MAKE COVID CURE AFFORDABLE

Even as deaths due to Covid-19 crossed the one lakh-mark in India, a proposal was sent to the WTO by New Delhi seeking a waiver of patents and intellectual property rights over vaccines, therapeutics and diagnostics required to deal with the pandemic. In the past, long-drawn legal procedures and negotiations over patents and intellectual property have stood in the way of access to crucial drugs, and not just in third-world countries.

In the UK, a country with a robust public healthcare system, there are reports of women having sold their property to get their hands on Herceptin, a crucial drug in the treatment of breast cancer. A British woman took her government to court, saying having to spend 20,000 pounds a year on the drug was like giving her a death sentence. Though the verdict was in her favour, she lost the battle to breast cancer. Today, a biosimilar version of the same drug is made in India and is a whopping 65% cheaper.

Similarly, access to HIV medication would have been impossible for poor African nations had our pharma companies not produced cheap generic versions. In the case of Covid too, the issue is the same. With generic and biosimilar versions taking time to hit the market, the poor in India and elsewhere have been at the mercy of big pharma firms. For instance, Gilead's Remdesivir, an important drug in Covid care, was in short supply in India till August, when locally made biosimilars became available.

Roche's Tocilizumab, another crucial Covid drug, cost around ₹85,000 due to patent restrictions. Not just that, it's still in short supply in India. This newspaper reported in June about a man who had to drive all the way from Chennai to Hyderabad to get hold of it for his father. A similar thing could happen now once vaccines hit the market. Patents and intellectual property rights may keep the lifesaving vaccines far away from the reach of millions, until governments or non-profits decided to intervene. The WTO will meet next week to decide on the waiver proposal submitted by India and South Africa. If all nations act in solidarity, many lives can be saved from the grip of Covid.

The changes in labour laws will help both workers and industry. These will boost entrepreneurship and investments and are an important step in reviving our economy

LABOUR REFORMS CAN HELP RESHAPE INDIA'S GROWTH TRAJECTORY

CHANDRAJIT BANERJEE

Director General, Confederation of Indian Industry

AMIT BANDRE

India is projected to have the largest working population in the world between 2022 and 2034, with 10 million youth entering the workforce every year. Unleashing the true potential of such a strong workforce demands employment capacity of the industry. Therefore, rigidities and administrative burden in the labour regime were required to be addressed through substantive reforms. The passage of three labour codes in Parliament marked a milestone in this process and came after many years of consultations and discussions between the government, industry, trade unions and other stakeholders.

In the last five years, India has seen several legislative reforms to boost employment generation such as the Shram Suvidha Portal, MUDRA (Micro Units Development and Refinance Agency), Startup India, Make in India, Skill India, digitisation of labour law compliances, etc. With the codes on wages, industrial relations, social security, and welfare and safety, a new environment for job creation is underway.

Existing labour laws were found to be out of sync with the evolving business regulatory environment and India's growth aspirations. Successful emerging economies on a development path have leveraged their labour supply for accelerating growth; however, India's labour laws were applicable to around 80 million workers in the formal sector, leaving the rest of the 500 million-strong workforce out of these benefits.

On the business side, due to procedural rigidities in workforce adjustment, firms are unable to respond to product market competition, resulting in high transaction costs that adversely impact productivity as well as employment. Also, multiplicity, overlap and unclear definitions of terms such as establishment, industry, wages and workers create unnecessary confusion and prolong litigations.

The Labour Code on Wages was the first code passed by Parliament in 2019. The Code subsumes four major acts concerning wages and ensures the minimum and timely payment of wages to all workers in both the organised and unorganised sectors. Many unorganised workers such as agricultural workers, painters, etc., who were out of the ambit of the earlier Minimum Wages Act, were afforded legislative protection under it.

The Code clarifies the definition of wages, as the presence of multiple definitions under different Acts has always led to litigation and added to the cost of compliance for industry. Companies will be benefited as the number of registers, returns, forms, etc., can not only be electronically filed and maintained, but also be provided in a single template. Many changes have been introduced in the inspection rules, including the web-based randomised computerised inspection scheme, jurisdiction-free inspections, calling of information electronically for inspection, compounding of offences, etc.

These changes will enable the enforcement of the Code with transparency and accountability. The rationalisation of the method of fixing minimum wages will significantly reduce the number of minimum wage slabs and is certainly a step towards ease of doing business.

> Successful emerging economies have leveraged their labour supply for accelerating growth; but India's labour laws were applicable to only those in the formal sector, leaving the rest of the 500 million-strong workforce out of these benefits

The Code on Industrial Relations 2020 is the central Code that impacts the industrial ecosystem and labour relations in the country. The introduction of Fixed Term Employment and change in the threshold limit for retrenchment will boost generation of new employment, particularly for larger firms. The increase in the threshold for taking prior permission of the government for retrenchment from 100 to 300 workers will also enable smaller firms to grow. Further, the Code provides for speedier adjudication of disputes and appropriate rules for strikes and lockouts to be preceded by a mandatory 14-day prior notice.

The Code on Occupational Safety, Health and Working Conditions applies to establishments employing at least 10 people, all workers in mines and docks, and hazardous operations employing even a single worker. The provision of a national helpline for interstate migrant workers and an annual travel allowance from the employer to visit their place of origin gives protection and relief to the former. The Code permits women to work in night shifts in all establishments for all types of work, which would help enhance female workforce participation.

The Code on Social Security replaces nine laws dealing with the issue. The insurance benefits under ESI are extended to plantation workers, gig workers, platform workers and unorganised sector workers. It has also increased the coverage of the scheme to 740 districts from the present 566. Also, the option for becoming a member of ESIC is being given to establishments employing less than 10 workers as well.

Focusing on ease of doing business, a number of states have relaxed rules on registrations, registers, returns, filings, inspections, working hours, shifts, etc., while retaining important safeguards pertaining to overtime pay, paid leave, health and safety protocols. The introduction of these labour reforms is welcomed by the industry.

The momentum, which has been built over six years, has finally led to substantive reforms that will positively impact both workers and industry. The labour reforms will certainly boost entrepreneurship and investments, and are an important step for reviving India's economy.

CHITRA MANTAPA: REMINISCENCE OF MYSORE PAINTINGS

R H KULKARNI

Professor, Dept of Art History, College of Fine Arts, Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath

The 'Chitra Mantapa' hall with wall and ceiling paintings is an ancient concept. The term can be applied to the historical cave paintings in India, including the early Buddhist-painted rock-cut chaityas and viharas at Ajanta (2nd century BCE- 5th Century CE). The Ajanta paintings mainly depict the life and Jataka stories of the Buddha.

In the post-Ajanta period, paintings continued to be favoured by many dynasties. In the Karnataka region, the Badami Chalukyas carried on with the tradition of painting in cave temples. However, only fragments of paintings are now found in Cave 3 in Badami.

In the post-Badami Chalukya era, the Rashtrakutas, the later Chalukyas and the Hoysalas concentrated on prolific temple activities and sculptures, and hence, there was minimal space for paintings. The Vijayanagara kings revived the Chitra Mantapa tradition. The Maharanga-mantapa (1509 CE) in Hampi's Virupaksha temple has paintings on the ceiling that may be dated to ca. 1520-25 CE.

In the post-Vijayanagara period, the Mysore Wodeyars continued to patronise the art. The kings built a lot of temples, donated for Kalyana Mantapas and renewed grants to many religious institutions. The Shwetavaraha Swamy and Shri Prasanna Krishna temples, situated within the Mysore palace premises, have murals depicting Ramayana and Bhagavatha narratives on the inner walls of the hall.

The Chitra Mantapa at the Shri Prasanna Venkataramana temple in Mysore has significant wall and ceiling paintings. The temple is situated in Sri Krishna Vilasa Agrahara, near Jaganmohana palace. It was built by Subbaraya Dasa, a Madhwa saint in 1836 CE, with grants given by King Krishnaraja Wodeyar III. Another grant dated to 1842 CE mentions the construction of a Chitra Mantapa. It is a small hall, having paintings of Wodeyar portraits and Kshetra Darshana narratives. The latter were the result of Subbaraya Dasa's religious trips to various places in North and South India.

At the entrance, a painting of Trivikrama is depicted. The images of Kama and Rati on Navanari Kunjara (elephant) and Pancha Nari Turaga (horse) respectively are painted on either side of the main image. There are depictions of the wedding of Rama and Sita, coronation of Rama, Ugra Narasimha, Vata Patra Shayi Krishna and Lakshmi Narasimha on the upper register of the frame.

The Bhagavata narratives of Krishna with Rukmini and Satyabhama, Yamalarjuna Vijaya, Gopika Vastrapaharana and a hunting scene are found here.

There are 12 portraits of the Mysore kings who ruled before Krishnaraja Wodeyar III. All portraits are identical in style and form of depiction. The portraits of Chikkadevaraja Wodeyar, Bettada Chamaraja Wodeyar, Kanthirava Maharaja Wodeyar and Khasa Chamaraja Wodeyar are in one framed composition.

On the left side wall, the narrations of Kshetra Darshana of Subbaraya Dasa are depicted. The panel depicts Hampi Virupaksha, Vyasarayara Patha and Nava Vrindavana. Next to it are Azhwar Utpatti Sthala (Azhwar Thirunagari) and the other Nava Tirupati temples in Tamil Nadu. In the lower strata, the figures of Cheluva Narayana, Narasimha, Kalyani and Anjaneya in Melukote are depicted. In the next composition, Rameshwaram is depicted. Here, the Rameshwara Linga and Anjaneya are represented. In the lower panel, Srirangapatna, the erstwhile capital of Mysore Wodeyars, is depicted: the Sriranganatha and Narasimha temples, Ganjam village, Lalbaug, palace and a mosque are represented within the fort area.

The hall's rear wall has four portraits and a central panel. Portraits of Kanthirava Narasimharaja Wodeyar and Immadi Krishnaraja Wodeyar followed by a wooden relief depicting the figures of Sri Vedavyasa are found. The figures of Madhwacharya and Bhimasena are carved flanking the main image. Dewan Purnaiah, King Krishnaraja Wodeyar III and Subbaraya Dasa as well as Seenappa Dasa in standing posture are delineated in the lower space of the carving. Fine wooden carvings of Dashavatara images, Venugopala, Rukmini-Satyabhama, Srinivasa with Shri Devi-Bhudevi, Rama and Sita with Lakshmana are found all around the frame.

On the side wall, narratives of Kumbakonam—the Kumbheshwara, Chakrapani and Nageshwara temples—are to be seen. In Kanchipuram, Vishnu Kanchi, Siva Kanchi and Kamakshi temples are composed. The Chamundeshwari-Chamundi hill is also depicted. A large picture of Nanjanagudu temple and the Pancha Rathas there are portrayed to show the annual fair. The Beluru Chennakeshava and the Sivagange hill occupy the lower space of composition.

The Wodeyar portraits further continue on the right side wall: Raja Wodeyar, Dodda Krishnaraja Wodeyar, Bettada Chamaraja Wodeyar and Chamaraja Wodeyar. The last depiction in the right wall narration is the painting of the Tirumala hill. The artist has done an elaborate picturesque narration of Tirupati.

The Chitra Mantapa ceiling paintings provide more detailed visual descriptions of the Kshetra Darshana of Subbaraya Dasa. Depictions of Udupi, Kolhapur and Pandarapur Vithala are present. There is an elaborate painting of Kashipatna: images of Bhairavanath, Bindu Madhava and Anjaneya temples are painted. Besides these, depictions of Bhim Chandi, Manikarnika and Dashashvamedha Ghats are also seen. Ayodhya, Sarayu river and other places are shown in the upper strata of the composition. The paintings of Alaknanda, Gomati, Gandaki, Janakapuri, Janakamadi, Trayambakeshwara, Panchaganga, Nasik, Panchamari, Tapovana, Baragi, Niranjana, Haridwara, Saraswati, Brahma Kunda, Devaprayaga, Gangotri and other north Indian religious places are narrated in synoptic forms. The artist has written the names of all the places in early 19th century Kannada script.

Visualisation of the places that the artist possibly never visited is a significant aspect of the paintings. All these were created based on the oral descriptions given by Subbaraya Dasa. The royal portraits in the Chitra Mantapa serve as the visual records of the Wodeyar kings.

The uniqueness of these paintings is their uniform style and colour as well as the composition of the theme. Even amidst the influence of colonial art, they retained the local technique and composition. The paintings serve as the precursor to the traditional Mysore school.

Milestone for our defence

The completion and inauguration of the Atal Tunnel at Rohtang Pass is a significant milestone for India's defence along with civilian essentials. As we are flanked by two rogue neighbours, building border roads quickly is important.

A M Chakravarty, Hyderabad

BRO's hard work

The tunnel has brought Manali and Leh closer by 46 km. This saves about four hours of travel time. The hard work of the BRO despite adverse terrain and working conditions must be appreciated.

To score brownie points

The Gandhis succeeded in gaining access to the family of the Hathras rape victim. But meeting them will bring no solace to the family. Empathy by politicians is just a ruse to score brownie points for votes.

Probe against BJP MLA

The news about a Dehradun rape survivor writing to the PM and asking for a CBI probe against an Uttarakhand BJP MLA made for a sad read. Instances of crimes and misdemeanours by elected representatives are bringing a bad name to the party.

China can't win against us

The article Dragon's dilemma: Why China can't win a war against India (Oct 4) explained the present defence scenario and future prospects to show how China cannot win against us. The PM's good ties with leaders of other nations will help us.

Ravi Nair, Palakkad

Kudos to Armed Forces

The article was a real eye-opener to a layman like me. Kudos to the Forces for protecting us in inhospitable conditions and to the Centre for taking a tough stand on border incursions by China.

CBI at fault

This is with reference to Babri Masjid demolished yet again (Oct 4). The CBI court's verdict on the Babri demolition is a blot on the judicial system. But the criticism of scuttling justice should be directed at the CBI rather than the court.

Step in right direction

The Centre's announcement of a waiver of compound interest on loans below ₹2 crore is a step in the right direction. It mitigates the suffering of the people feeling the pinch due to the virus.

Setback for US President

US President Donald Trump testing positive for Covid-19 is a huge setback for him and the Republican party before the presidential elections on November 3. This may cast a shadow on his campaign as he has been constantly downplaying the virus and its effects.

Complacency hurts Kerala

Complacency and overconfidence have played a major part in the sudden rise in Covid cases in Kerala. It is high time the state stopped resting on its laurels.

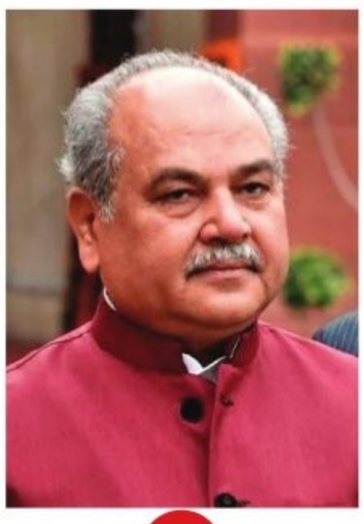
'NOW PROCESSORS WILL GO TO FARMERS TO BUY PRODUCE'

THE new farm reforms will improve the farmers' condition and the number of suicides will come down, Union Agriculture Minister Narendra Singh Tomar told Prabhu Chawla, Editorial Director, The New Indian Express in TNIE Expressions, a series of live webcasts with people who matter.

EXPRESS expressions FEAR NONE. FAVOUR NONE



Earlier, agriculture used to be the main industry and that is why it had a huge contribution. But, now more sectors have opened up. These sectors have more turnover and have progressed. Certainly, they will contribute more to the growth. For growth of agriculture, we need to do more

What was the need of three farm Bills during the Covid period? Was it right to bring the Bills at such a time?
Everybody wanted growth in agriculture. But, it is unfortunate that every good work has to face some protests...Discussion on reforms and in agriculture has been going on since long. The PM has been working in this direction continuously.. Whether it is accepting the recommendations of the Swaminathan Committee on MSP, or transferring ₹75,000 crore in farmers' bank accounts through PM-KISAN. Agriculture infrastructure fund of nearly ₹1.50 lakh crore was announced. It is necessary that farming should become profitable and some legal reforms were needed for this. We brought this Act. Now, farmers will not need to go to mandis. Mandis will be one of the options, and the farmer will be free to sell his produce directly from farms or warehouse.

A large amount has been dedicated for farm sector reforms. But, there are many states like Bihar, Sikkim where there is no APMC Act. Do you think that farmers there will get benefit? What will be the benefits?
In Bihar, if we look back, we find that farmers were not happy with APMCs. It had become like a racket and farmers were exploited. Exploitation of farmers stopped in Bihar after APMCs were removed. Farmers are independent of doing his business in the State.

But, income of farmers is very less. Income has not doubled since 2005.
Farmers have started benefiting because of the central schemes. Their income will certainly rise when they will improve. Milk and fisheries are also related to farming. For milk, farmers are not bound to go to mandis. There is an open trade for milk. Milk can be sent to Delhi or any other state from Madhya Pradesh. Farmers get adequate price for milk, and milk production has gone up by 8% in last six years. Similarly, fisheries have improved. ...Milk and fisheries have greater contribution to agriculture GDP than crops.

Agriculture contributes only 18% to the GDP, down from 50%. How will we reverse this trend?
Earlier, agriculture used to be the main industry and that is why it had a huge contribution. But, now more sectors have opened up. These sectors have more turnover and have progressed. Certainly, they will contribute more to the growth. For growth of agriculture, we need to do more. Today, there is a gap between farm produce and processors. Farmers will not be able to get the right price if the gap and the hurdles remain. Easy investment should reach villages. We need to provide adequate infrastructure in villages and that is why we came up with Acts on open trade. Earlier, farmers had to reach mandis. Now, the trend will reverse...processors will come to them to buy their produce.

But, size of holding is very less. It looks like big industrialists will dictate over farmers.
It is true that nearly 86% farms are small. But, small farmers can be a big force. For this, FPO scheme was launched. We are going to spend ₹68 lakh in five years on every FPO to help farmers. When these small farmers will come together in one FPO, they will emerge as a big force. It will raise their risk-taking capacity. Even small farmers will be able to get adequate price of their produce.

Despite all these efforts, farmers' income has not gone up much. Suicides have increased. Do you think there is no proper implementation (of schemes)...
We always wanted benefits to reach the bottom. Benefits are reaching through DBT. ₹75,000 crore of Kisan Samman Nidhi is reaching the accounts of farmers. ..they will get more benefits with the growth in digitisation. But, so far as reform is concerned, I want to say that farmers should be cautious of bad-publicity. People are criticising due to self-interests.. they don't have any right to criticise. Overall, we brought three reforms. You see the 2019 Congress manifesto. They have promised that they will implement these reforms if they come to power. Even (former) Prime Minister Manmohan Singh and (former) agriculture minister Sharad Pawar spoke about such reforms during the UPA. But, they could not dare due to some pressure or influence. Even Punjab Congress manifesto talked about these reforms. Modiji is always ready to take risk for reforms. Because he knows that there will be some risks in the making of New India. The new reforms will certainly improve the conditions of farmers and will curb suicides.

But, the input costs are rising. Diesel is costlier. Electricity and fertilisers have become costlier. How will income rise?
I agree with this. Diesel and other prices keep moving up and down. But, I want to tell that Swaminathan ji had recommended of fixing MSP by adding 50% profits to the cost of farming. In 10 years, the UPA did not implement ther recommendations. Today, Modiji has done this. MSPs are declared after adding 50 % benefits to all the input costs. We have started this. In last six years, nearly ₹7 lakh crore worth purchase has been done from farmers on MSP, which is nearly the double of UPA's 10 years.

But, procurement under MSP is not much in many states. In that condition, farmers will be dependent of farmers. There will be monopoly.
Nobody should have any fear on this. FCI and NAFED are procuring wheat, rice and pulses, and it is rising continuously. FCI makes purchase in coordination with the states. There is a timeframe for FCI and it procures from farmers within that period. Our Act says that payment should be made to farmers within three days of purchase. It also says that there would be no taxes on trading outside APMCs.

1,550 tonnes food grains wasted during lockdown

KUMAR VIKRAM @New Delhi

AT a time when it was reported that migrants died due to hunger and starvation during the lockdown period in April and May, data revealed that over 1,550 tonnes of food grains got damaged in Food Corporation of India (FCI) godowns.

According to Ministry of Consumer Affairs data, May witnessed nearly 26 tonnes of food grains damage while June recorded damage of over 1453 tonnes. July and August recorded wastage of 41 and 51 tonnes respectively. As per the data, zero damage of foodgrains were reported during the March and April.

Comparing with the data between April-June, the reported damage of foodgrains in FCI during this year was very high. Damage of foodgrains in FCI godown during April-June was nearly 100 tonnes while the damage during April-June was nearly 1500 tonnes.

According to the ministry, foodgrains available with the FCI are generally stored in a scientific manner in covered godowns, with various preservation measures like fumigation and treatment with pesticides. In spite of all precautions, small quantity of foodgrains may become non-issuable due to various reasons like natural calamities, damages in transit.

Officials also said that whenever accrual of any quantity of damaged foodgrains is noticed, each case is investigated immediately and action by the concerned authority is invariably taken against officers/officials found responsible. Nearly 125 officials have been found responsible between the years 2014-2018 for damages and appropriate actions have been taken accordingly.

Under the Phase-I of the pro-poor Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan Anna Yojana, the government had allocated a total of about 121 LMT of ftodgrains to all States/UTs for additional free-of-cost distribution to the beneficiaries covered under the National Food Security Act,2013 (NFSA) for a period of 3 months ie. from April to June 2020.

'Girl raped only because she was Dalit'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

AS a nationwide outrage has started over the Hathras incident in which a 19-year-old Dalit girl died of injuries from the gangrape and brutal physical torture, uncle of another rape victim in Uttar Pradesh's Lakhimpur Kheri is certain that the deceased won't get justice.

"Our child was raped and killed only because she was a Dalit. Our children have no safety here," said Ram Lal (name changed), the uncle of a 13-year-old girl who was raped and murdered in Uttar Pradesh's Lakhimpur Kheri in August.

Experts observe that dominant castes unleash violence on Dalits to wield power over them. It is also often linked with the social progress of Dalits, they said.

"It is painful for us to describe the state the girl was found in," said Lal.

The latest National Crime Records Bureau data shows an increase of 7.3 per cent in crimes against Scheduled Caste people with 45,935 cases — an increase from 42,793 cases registered in 2018. Uttar Pradesh alone accounts for over 25 per cent of the total cases by recording the highest number of atrocities against SC people in the country.

The National Dalit Movement for Justice (NDMJ)-National Campaign of Dalit Human Rights (NCDHR) — coalitions defending rights of Dalits — said the recent rapes of Dalit girls in Lakhimpur Kheri, Hathras and Balrampur expose the existing situation of the lower caste in the country.

Yogi: Opposition stirring up caste conflict purposely

CM says political forces are unable to digest development works in UP

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

UTTAR Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath launched a scathing attack on the Opposition without taking names and accused it of trying to foment caste conflict in state as part of its evil designs and malicious attempt to cast shadow on the development work being undertaken by his government.

Yogi broke his silence amid Opposition's onslaught on his government in connection with the Hathras rape and murder case.

Addressing BJP workers in Naugaon Sadat in Amroha district through video link, the CM said that certain political forces were unable to digest the development works being carried out by the BJP dispensation and were adopting every trick to push the state into a caste conflagration in the state. They were out to hatch conspiracy to destabilise the government functioning by fanning hatred among castes and communities, he said.

The CM's attack came even as Bhim Army chief Chandrashekhar Azad and RLD vice-president Jayant Chaudhary marched to Hathras to meet the family of the victim in Hathras.

Exhorting his party workers to pull up socks for the upcoming bypoll in seven assembly seats on November 3, Yogi claimed that despite the pandemic, the UP government was carrying out public specific schemes. "Because of corona, the by-elections would be of a different kind this time. There would be no big rallies," Yogi said, while pushing booth level workers for carrying out door-to-door campaigns and apprising people about the schemes of the Centre and the state government. Yogi said that if the party managed to reach every voter through its booth level functionaries then they would emerge victorious in the by-elections.

CM asked the party workers to be aware of the designs of opposition and expose its plot in front of the people while carrying out a door-to-door contact campaign.

The CM also reiterated his government commitment of coming up with 3 lakh government jobs.

BJP leader urges Yogi to take action against 'unruly' cops

A Maharashtra BJP leader has demanded actions against the Uttar Pradesh police for their unruly behaviour with the Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi and other women leaders who were protesting against the Hathras incident. Chitra Wagh, BJP Maharashtra VP said, "There should be women cops in the force so that no male officers can grab the cloth of protesting women. If there are women protestors, then the male cops should behave properly. UP CM should take the actions against these errant cops."

Hoping to receive 50 cr doses of Covid vaccine by July: Vardhan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @New Delhi

THE Centre is hoping to receive and utilise 400-500 million doses of vaccine against Covid-19 covering approximately 20-25 crore people by July, 2021, Union health minister Harsh Vardhan declared on Sunday.

Interacting with his social media followers through the programme titled Sunday Samvaad, the minister also said, "There is a high-level expert body going into all aspects of vaccines. Our rough estimate and the target would be to receive and utilise 400 to 500 million doses covering approximately 25 crore people by July 2021."

In response to the question on prioritising the distribution of vaccines, Vardhan said that the health ministry is currently preparing a format in which states will submit lists of priority population groups to receive vaccines, especially health workers engaged in the management of Covid-19.

The list of frontline health workers will include government as well as private sector doctors, nurses, paramedics, sanitary staff, ASHA workers, surveillance officers and many other occupational categories who are involved in tracing, testing and treatment of patients.

This exercise is targeted to be completed by the end of this October and the states are being closely guided to also submit details. The minister also underlined that vaccine procurement is being done centrally and each consignment will be tracked real time

Former ally blames Tejashwi for break-up, to contest all 243 seats

Mukesh Sahni-led VIP accuses RJD of 'betrayal', says in talks with Kushwaha, Pappu Yadav

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

A day after exiting the opposition Grand Alliance in Bihar, the Vikassheel Insaan Party (VIP) on Sunday announced that it will contest all 243 Assembly seats in the state. Mukesh Sahni, founder and national president of the VIP, also declared that he will never be in a political alliance with RJD as long as Tejashwi Yadav was leading the party. VIP had decided to walk out of the RJD-led Grand Alliance on Saturday after being denied seats in upcoming elections.

"Our party will announce the first list of candidates on October 5. We are speaking to Upendra Kushwaha's RLSP and Pappu Yadav-led JAP also," Sahni said.

Sahni accused Tejashwi Yadav of conspiring against him and betraying his trust. He added that the RJD was no longer Lalu Yadav's party.

"Tejashwi also cheated us in the Lok Sabha elections at the last moment and we were compelled to contest from Khagaria Lok Sabha seat under a conspiracy," he alleged. Sahni said that the VIP always worked to strengthen the Grand Alliance but the RJD continued humiliating Dalit leaders in the alliance including Jitan Ram Manjhi and Upendra Kushwaha.

Sahni said that Tejashwi's brother Tej Pratap Yadav is far better but is being sidelined by his younger sibling.

"When Tejashwi Yadav cannot be true to his elder brother, how can he be true to the youths of state? He is scared of all other young leaders like Kanhaiya Kumar of CPI and Chirag Paswan of LJP," Sahni alleged.

The VIP leader said, this time, he would choose partners on his terms and conditions. However, the VIP may not put up candidates in those constituencies where extremely backward class (EBC) nominees will be fighting on "ruling party's tickets", he said.

On Saturday, Tejashwi Yadav had announced that RJD would contest on 144 seats while Congress was given 70 seats, the CPI(ML) 19, CPI (six) and four seats to the CPI(M). It was said that RJD would be accommodating JMM and VIP from its own quota of constituencies.

Arjuna Award winner Shreyasi Singh joins BJP, may contest Assembly poll

Shreyasi Singh, daughter of late Union Minister Digvijay Singh, with her membership slip after joining the BJP in New Delhi on Sunday | PARVEEN NEGI

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

COMMONWEALTH Games gold medallist and Arjuna Award winner shooter Shreyasi Singh joined the BJP on Sunday in New Delhi. Singh, who hails from Jamui district of Bihar, may fight the state assembly elections.

Singh is the daughter of the late Union Minister Digvijay Singh and former Banka MP Putul Singh. She joined the BJP at the party headquarters in the presence of its Bihar general secretaries Bhupender Yadav and Arun Singh and Bihar BJP President Sanjay Jaiswal. She later met party president J P Nadda also.

Earlier, Singh was also speculated to join the RJD and contest from Amarpur seat.

Singh had campaigned for her mother Putul Singh in the 2019 Lok Sabha elections. Though her mother lost the election, Singh had pulled huge crowds during her roadshows.

Singh's father was elected to Lok Sabha several times from Banka and had also served as a member of Rajya Sabha. Putul Singh represented Banka as an independent in Lok Sabha following his death in 2010. She later joined the BJP but was expelled from the party for filing her nomination as an independent from Banka as the seat was allocated to the JD-U.

JD-U, BJP reshape seat sharing: Sources

After weeks of haggling, the BJP and the JD-U are learnt to have finalised a formula formed soon after the LJP exited the alliance on Sunday. According to sources, BJP will field its candidates on 121 seats while the JD-U will contest on 122 seats. JD-U will accommodate Jitan Ram Manjhi's HAM giving 5 tickets from its quota, sources said

FIR AGAINST LALU'S SONS IN DALIT MURDER CASE

PATNA: RJD leaders Tejashawi and Tej Pratap Yadav were among six people named in an FIR registered in Purnia district in connection with the murder of a 35-year old Dalit youth leader on Sunday. Shakti Mallik, a former secretary of the SC-ST Cell of RJD, was gunned down by motorcycle-borne assailants at his house.

His wife Khusboo Devi alleged that the murder was politically planned because he was planning to contest as an independent candidate after Tejashwi denied ticket to him.

Making matters worse, a video went viral in which Mallik was heard accusing Tejashawi of demanding ₹50 lakh as donation and threatening him.

Confirming this, Purnia District Magistrate Rahul Kumar told this newspaper that Tejashawi, Tej Pratap and four others were named as accused in the FIR. ENS

TMC campaign to target BJP over rapes

The Trinamool Congress has launched a massive digital campaign to highlight atrocities against under the rule of Adityanath-led UP government as well as the Centre. Using #BJPHataoBetiBachao, the TMC will be targeting the BJP governments over their apathy and disregard in terms of rising crimes against women including four cases of rape recorded in UP in 24 hours

Hathras derails BJP's Bengal election plan

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

BJP's plan to highlight poll-bound West Bengal's 'deteriorating' law and order issue in its campaign ahead of 2021 Assembly elections has received a jolt in the wake of the Hathras incident, said party sources. The ruling Trinamool Congress already sharpened attack on the BJP over the law and order situation and women's safety in BJP-led Uttar Pradesh.

The party's new initiative titled 'Uma' to portray the crime against women scenario in Bengal has also been hit after the alleged gangrape and murder of a Dalit woman in UP and the way local administration allegedly set the body ablaze without her family's consent.

"In the meeting with the national leadership on October 1 in Delhi, party president JP Nadda directed us to highlight the issues related to state's affairs, instead of talking much about the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA) and National Register of Citizens. We have been asked to portray issues like corruption among the ruling party functionaries, Bengal's deteriorating law and order situation and barring central of schemes for the poor," said a senior BJP leader.

"However, the UP incident has become the talk of the nation. Before attacking Mamata Banerjee's government on law and order issue, we will have to wait till the people's sentiment calms down," he added.

We don't know how much damage Hathras incident will cause to our Dalit vote bank. It will be clear only after the elections

A senior BJP leader

'We don't know how much damage the Hathras incident will cause to our Dalit vote bank. It will be clear only after the polls," said another BJP leader.

Playing the Dalit card to woo the backward class electorates in the state who are the deciding factor in 84 out of 294 assembly seats in Bengal, TMC chief Mamata Banerjee took out a march in Kolkata on Saturday protesting the Hathras incident.

She also announced her party would continue staging protests for the next week across the state.

Akalis form committee to coordinate with regional parties

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

SHIROMANI Akali Dal (SAD) president Sukhbir Singh Badal on Sunday announced the setting up of a high-powered committee to coordinate with regional and other like-minded parties to ensure the setting up of a genuinely federal structure in the country.

The decision came in the wake of the decision taken at a meeting of the SAD Core Committee. Announcing the decision, Badal's principal advisor Harcharan Singh Bains said that the panel would be chaired by party general secretary Balwinder Singh Bhunder and would also include Prof Prem Singh Chandumajra, Manjinder Singh Sirsa and Naresh Gujral as members.

The panel would coordinate with the leaders of other regional parties as well as those who have been consistently advocating more fiscal and political autonomy to the states.

Badal told the committee that the need for strengthening the federal structure has become more pronounced in the wake of threats being posed to it in recent ties. He said the SAD has always been at the forefront of the fight against authoritarian and unitarist tendencies.

The Shiromani Akali Dal also urged the Centre to convene a joint meeting of all stakeholders in the on-going farmers' struggle.

Sidhu takes dig at Cong govt during Rahul's rally in Punjab

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FORMER Punjab minister and Congress MLA Navjot Singh Sidhu attacked his own government at the tractor rally led by Congress leader Rahul Gandhi at Moga on Sunday to protest against the Centre's new farm laws.

Addressing the rally, Sidhu said that the Punjab government should give Minimum Support Price (MSP) on pulses and oilseeds and set up infrastructure for storage of crops. The government should provide storage and other facilities for the farmers and should take their responsibility and fight for them, he added.

When Sukhjinder Singh Randhawa, the cooperative and jail minister, asked him to cut short his address as others have also to speak, Sidhu replies saying "let me speak as for more than a year I have not been allowed to speak".

Slamming the BJP-led NDA government in Centre, Sidhu termed the contentious agriculture laws as an attack on India's federal structure and diversity. "They are trying to impose the failed system from Europe and the US on us. The capitalists are running this country and the benefits to farmers are labelled as subsidies whereas relaxations worth lakhs of rupees given to the rich are called incentives. They are robbing our rights," he said.

"When India needed the Green Revolution,. Punjab's farmers provided grains to the entire country and fed 80 crore people. But today the government is trying to kill the farmer and his income," he said.

He said these new legislations would adversely affect five lakh labourers and 30,000 'arthiyas' (commission agents).

Sidhu MLA from Amritsar (East), had been at loggerheads with CM Amarinder Singh and had stayed away from all party activities ever since resigning as cabinet minister last year. After being persuaded to join Sunday's rally, Sidhu shared the stage with Amarinder but they did not great each other.

Assam rifles jawan killed in Arunachal ambush

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

AN Assam Rifles jawan was killed while another was injured in an ambush carried out by suspected militants in Changlang district of Arunachal Pradesh on Sunday. According to official sources, the attack was perpetrated near Hetlong village under Jairampur police station at around 9 am.

The state administration as well as security forces suspected the involvement of 30-35 militants of the Paresh Baruah faction of United Liberation Front of Assam (ULFA Independent) and the Yung Aung faction of the National Socialist Council of Nagaland (NSCN-K) in the incident.

"The militants carried out the attack on a water tanker of the 19 Assam Rifles. It was travelling to a village to fetch water," Changlang District Magistrate Devansh Yadav told this newspaper.

He neither confirmed nor denied reports that the militants had triggered an IED blast prior to opening indiscriminate fire.

"We received reports that there was an explosion. However, we cannot confirm it until we receive the report of autopsy. But shots were fired. In all likelihood, death was caused by bullet injuries," Yadav said.

Uttarakhand relaxes cap on daily pilgrims for Char Dham

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

IN another step to ensure hassle-free religious tourism in the state, the Uttarakhand government on Sunday increased the number of pilgrims allowed daily at Char Dham shrines-Kedarnath Badrinath, Gangotri and Yamunotri. Chopper services for Kedarnath will also resume on October 9, said officials.

"The limit of per day pilgrim allowed has been increased in all four shrines from Monday," Ravinath Raman, chief executive officer of Char Dham Devsthanam Board and commissioner of Garhwal division of Uttarakhand, said.

"However, e-passes will be issued on the basis of availability of accommodation, food, toilet and other arrangements, including social distancing, as assessed by respective district magistrates. This has been necessitated following increased footfall of pilgrims after Unlock-5," he added.

The limit of per day visitors to Badrinath has been increased to 3,000 while the same number of pilgrims will be allowed every day from Monday in Kedarnath. 900 pilgrims will be allowed at Gangotri and the number of pilgrims visiting Yamunotri has been fixed at 700. Earlier, the number of pilgrims had been fixed at 800 for Kedarnath, 1,200 for Badrinath, 600 for Gangotri and 400 for Yamunotri shrine.

Last week, the state government had exempted pilgrims from producing Covid-19 negative test report to visit the Char Dham shrines. More than 38 lakh pilgrims travelled to the four shrines last year.

SAIL supplied steel for Atal Tunnel

Steel Authority of India Limited (SAIL), the largest steel-producing company in India, was the major supplier of steel that was used in the construction of the Atal Tunnel in Rohtang, which was inaugurated by Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday. SAIL supplied more than 9,000 tonnes of its quality steel, out of a total of 15,000 tonnes used, for the project. The tunnel is the world's longest road tunnel at an altitude of above 3,000 meters. "It is a proud moment for the Company to have partnered in such an important project for strengthening India," said SAIL Chairman Anil Kumar Chaudhary.

No lightings, decoration in Duga Puja pandals

Issuing fresh guidelines for Unlock 5, the Jharkhand government has allowed religious places to open from October 8. However, the Durga Puja festival will be permitted only at homes, temples and small pandals without public participation. The pandals must be kept smaller and covered from all sides in a way to prevent any public view of idols and should not be based on any theme to prevent public gatherings. According to the ordeer, the size of the idol must be less than four feet and there should not be more than 7 people inside the pandal at one time. There shall be no public address system, lightings or decoration will be permitted in or outside pandals. No community feast, 'prasad' or 'bhog' distribution shall be organised, said the order.

Butterfly park at Ranchi Zoo soon

The Bhagwan Birsa Biological Park in Ranchi is all set to start a butterfly park by March 2021. Zoo officials claimed that the butterfly park will be swarmed with thousands of varieties of butterflies to attract more and more visitors. Spread across approximately 20 acres, the estimated budget for the butterfly park has been set at ₹2 crore. In the first phase of the project, fencing and plantation of about 100 species of host and nectar plants have already been completed. As per the plan, no trees present on the premises will be disturbed in the development of the project.

Trump had two spells of low oxygen, but could be discharged today: Docs

Prez was given dexamethasone, known to help severe cases but typically not mild ones

BETHESDA

US President Donald Trump's blood oxygen level dropped suddenly twice in recent days, but he "has continued to improve" since then, the White House physician said Sunday, adding a new layer of confusion to the president's fight with Covid-19 even while suggesting he could be discharged from the hospital as early as Monday.

Trump's doctors, speaking on the steps of the military hospital where he was being treated for a third consecutive day, refused to disclose the specific timing of the president's dip in oxygen or whether lung scans showed any damage.

Navy Cmdr. Dr. Sean Conley acknowledged he was trying to downplay the severity of the president's condition the day before.

"I was trying to reflect the upbeat attitude of the team, that the president, that his course of illness has had. Didn't want to give any information that might steer the course of illness in another direction," Conley said. "And in doing so, came off like we're trying to hide something, which wasn't necessarily true. The fact of the matter is that he's doing really well."

Conley said the president had a "high fever" and a blood oxygen level below 94% on Friday and during "another episode" on Saturday. He was evasive when asked whether Trump's level had dropped below 90%: "We don't have any recordings here on that."

The level currently stands at 98%, Trump's medical team said.

Trump offered his own assessment of his status the night before in a video from his hospital suite, saying he was beginning to feel better and hoped to "be back soon." And he was back on social media early Sunday morning, sharing a video of flag-waving supporters, most not wearing masks, gathered outside Walter Reed National Military Medical Center.

Can Trump delay the election?

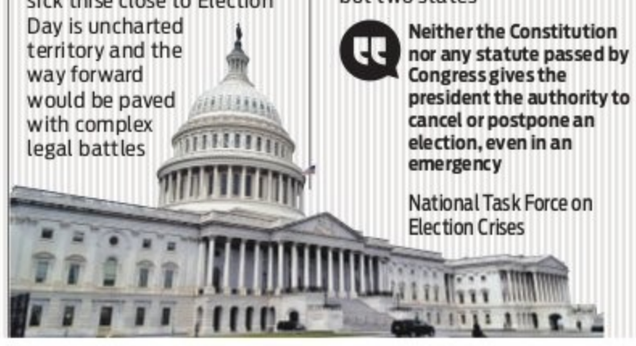
If the president is unable to serve, through illness or death, the 25th Amendment makes clear the powers of the presidency transfer to Vice President Mike Pence until the president regains the ability to perform his duties. But what happens if Trump wants to delay the election, as his Covid-19 diagnosis has brought his campaign to a halt this close to Nov 3?

SHORT ANSWER: NO

- The date of the election is set by federal law — the Tuesday after the first Monday in November — which falls this year on Nov 3. Only Congress can change the date of the election
- But the House of Representatives is controlled by Democrats, who are already furious with Republicans for hypocritically pushing through a Supreme Court judge nominee

WHAT CAN TRUMP'S PARTY DO

Experts say Trump getting sick thise close to Election Day is uncharted territory and the way forward would be paved with complex legal battles



CAN G.O.P. CHANGE ITS NOMINEE?

- Yes, but not this close to Election Day

63 mn ballots have already been sent to voters, with nearly 3 mn votes already cast

- The deadline for candidates to withdraw has passed in all but two states

US President Donald Trump works in the Presidential Suite at Walter Reed National Military Medical Center in Bethesda | WHITE HOUSE VIA AP

The changing, and at times contradictory, accounts created a credibility crisis for the White House at a crucial moment, with the president's health and the nation's leadership on the line. Moreover, the president's health represents a national security issue of paramount importance not only to the functions of the US government but also to countries around the world, friendly and otherwise.

Trump's Democratic challenger, Joe Biden, pulled his attack ads off the air during Trump's hospitalization, and on Sunday, he dispatched senior aides to deliver a largely friendly message.

"We are sincerely hoping that the president makes a very quick recovery, and we can see him back out on the campaign trail very soon," his adviser Symone Sanders told CNN. AP

White House aides 'losing their minds' after diagnosis

WASHINGTON

IN Donald Trump's absence, the mood in the White House is reportedly one of panic, with people worried that the spread of the virus could disrupt the functioning of government, the Guardian reported.

"People are losing their minds," one unnamed source told the Washington Post. First, they were worried about their own exposure to the virus after Trump was diagnosed with Covid-19. Then thought about the political fallout.

"The hit writes itself: He can't protect the country. He couldn't even protect himself," White House adviser who works outside the building told the Post.

The president's coronavirus infection, as well as the illnesses of several aides and allies, has imperiled the highest levels of the US government. The White House's efforts Saturday to project calm backfired in stunning fashion, resulting in a blizzard of confusing and contradictory information.

On Saturday, Trump's physician, who painted a sunny picture of the president's situation, emphasizing that he was still working and not labouring to breathe. Shortly after, White House chief of staff Mark Meadows gave journalists a more troubling depiction, saying the president's situation had been "very concerning."

The conflicting information sparked an outcry among Trump allies who wondered how the president's team could have been so unprepared.

2 cities under heavy attack as Karabakh fighting intensifies

STEPANAKERT

ARMENIAN and Azerbaijani forces exchanged heavy rocket and artillery fire as fighting intensified over Nagorno-Karabakh on Sunday, with the breakaway region's capital and Azerbaijan's second-largest city hit.

Armenia said that Nagorno-Karabakh's main city Stepanakert, which has been under shelling since Friday, was hit again on Sunday and AFP journalists said there were regular explosions and clouds of black smoke rising in parts of the city. Azerbaijan's defence ministry said Ganja, a city of 330,000 in western Azerbaijan, also came under fire, while Armenian-backed separatist forces claimed to have destroyed an airbase there.

The two sides accused each other of targeting civilian areas, as the conflict widened a week after heavy fighting broke out in the dispute over the ethnic-Armenian region.

Armenia and Azerbaijan have resisted international calls for a ceasefire and clashes have intensified in recent days, with both sides claiming victories on the front and saying they are inflicting heavy losses. Sirens were sounding and explosions were heard at regular intervals in Stepanakert, where residents were taking shelter including several families in the basement of the city's Holy Mother of God Cathedral. AFP

Interpol puts out 'red notice' for Red Bull heir

Interpol has issued a "red notice" to arrest the fugitive Thai heir to the Red Bull billions for his role in a fatal hit-and-run, police said Sunday. The move by the international police organisation is the latest in the years-long saga surrounding Vorayuth "Boss" Yoovidhya who crashed his Ferrari in 2012, killing a police officer. The charges against Vorayuth, who is the grandson of Red Bull's co-founder, were dropped in July -- sparking public outrage from Thais who saw it as an example of impunity enjoyed by the kingdom's elite. It spurred probes by various government agencies, including the Attorney General's Office which last month announced fresh charges against Vorayuth of reckless driving causing death and cocaine use. National Police spokesman Colonel Krissana Pattanacharoen confirmed Sunday a red notice -- Interpol's most urgent alert -- was issued earlier this week. The fugitive heir fled the country back in 2017 on a private jet.

Sri Lankan authorities imposed a curfew Sunday in two suburbs in Western Province, after a person tested positive for the coronavirus. The curfew covers Minuwangoda and Divulapitiya suburbs, about 50 kilometers (31 miles) north of the capital Colombo. The Education Ministry announced that school holidays would be moved forward to start Oct 5 instead of Oct. 9. The person was being treated at a hospital for a fever when a coronavirus test came back positive. About 15 hospital staff and 40 co-workers have been put in self-quarantine. For more than two months, health officials have been saying that they have prevented the community spread of the virus. The country has reported 3,388 confirmed cases, including 13 deaths.

Limited umrah in first phase of Mecca opening

RIYADH

A very small, limited number of people on Sunday donned the white terrycloth garment symbolic of the Muslim pilgrimage and circled Islam's holiest site in Mecca, after Saudi Arabia lifted coronavirus restrictions that had been in place for months.

The kingdom had taken the rare step in early March of suspending the smaller "umrah" pilgrimage, which can be taken at any time of the year.

But as nations begin to ease those restrictions, the Saudi government on Sunday started allowing a maximum of 6,000 pilgrims a day to enter the sprawling Grand Mosque in Mecca. Only Saudi citizens and residents will be permitted to enter the mosque during this first phase of reopening, and each person has up to 3 hours to complete the pilgrimage.

The Grand Mosque, which is being sterilized and cleaned multiple times a day, houses the cube-shaped Kaaba that observant Muslims pray toward five times a day.

Before visitors can enter the mosque to pray or perform the umrah, they have to apply and reserve a specific time and date through an online application to avoid crowding and maintain social distancing. Visitors can also select their means of transportation and meeting points via the app. AP

UK faces bumpy winter, says Boris as cases reach record high

LONDON

BRITISH PM Boris Johnson has defended his handling of the coronavirus pandemic, but warned that the country faces a "bumpy" winter ahead.

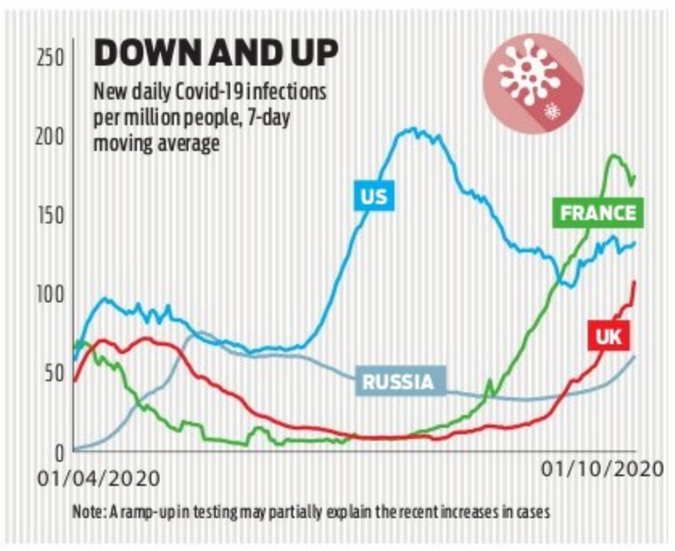
Britain has Europe's highest coronavirus death toll, at more than 42,000, and Johnson's Conservative government is facing criticism from all sides. Opponents say tougher social restrictions are needed to suppress a second pandemic wave, but many in Johnson's own right-of-center party argue that restrictions must be eased to save the economy.

Johnson told the BBC that the government had to strike a difficult balance and he couldn't "take a course that could expose us to tens of thousands more deaths in very short order."

British PM Boris Johnson | AP

Johnson expressed hope that progress on vaccines and testing would "change the scientific equation" in the next few months, allowing a return to normality.

But he said "it's going to continue to be bumpy through to Christmas. It may even be bumpy beyond."



Britain on Saturday reported a record 12,872 new coronavirus infections, by far the highest daily total since the outbreak began.

The UK is now under national restrictions on socializing, including a 10 pm curfew for bars and restaurants, and groups limited to six, with areas of high infection facing stricter local rules, which Johnson and other ministers have sometimes struggled to explain. Critics point to months of mixed messages and changes of advice on everything from wearing masks to whether or not to work from home. AP

Big cinema chain may close after Bond film delay

Cinema chain Cineworld said Sunday it is considering closing all its movie theaters in Britain and the United States, after the postponement of the new James Bond film left a big hole in schedules. Cineworld Group PLC owns 543 Regal cinemas in the U.S. and 128 Cineworld venues in the U.K. and Ireland. It said it was "considering the temporary closure of our U.K. and U.S. cinemas, but a final decision has not yet been reached." "Once a decision has been made we will update all staff and customers as soon as we can." The statement came after the Sunday Times reported that Cineworld's U.K. and Ireland theaters will shut indefinitely in the coming weeks, putting up to 5,500 people out of work. The newspaper and other outlets reported that Cineworld plans to write to U.K. Culture Secretary Oliver Dowden saying cinema has become "unviable" because studios are postponing blockbuster releases because of the coronavirus pandemic. Staff said they had not been informed or consulted about closures. British movie theaters began to reopen in July.

Market capitalism failed in pandemic: Pope

ROME

POPE Francis says the coronavirus pandemic has proven that the "magic theories" of market capitalism have failed and that the world needs a new type of politics that promotes dialogue and solidarity and rejects war at all costs.

Francis on Sunday laid out his vision for a post-Covid world by uniting the core elements of his social teachings into a new encyclical aimed at inspiring a revived sense of the human family. Fratelli Tutti (Brothers All) was released on the feast day of his namesake, the peace-loving St. Francis.

The document draws its inspiration from the teachings of St. Francis and the pope's previous preaching on the injustices of the global economy and its destruction of the planet and pairs them with his call for greater human solidarity to confront the "dark clouds over a closed world." In the encyclical, Francis rejected even the Catholic Church's own doctrine justifying war as a means of legitimate defense, saying it had been too broadly applied over the centuries and was no longer viable.

"It is very difficult nowadays to invoke the rational criteria elaborated in earlier centuries to speak of the possibility of a 'just war,'" Francis wrote. AP

MISTAKES INVESTORS MAKE

FRIENDS, professional acquaintances and even patrons at times forward opinions of self-appointed market experts on mobile phone groups and at times even reports from 'reputed' brokerage houses suggesting the possibility of raking in abnormal returns. This, to my mind, is the most basic of mistakes investors make, led on by those preying on their naivety and greed.

We are constrained to remind them that if only the art of investing was so easy that one could act on such pearls of wisdom (of which there is no dearth, courtesy the hyper active social media) and profit, then everyone ought to be doubling their wealth monthly. Alas, that must remain a pipe dream.

Without getting into the helplessness of the regulator in monitoring the proliferation of blatantly loaded messages by such fly- by-night operators, even as it cracks the whip randomly on largely adherent AMCs and registered intermediaries, it would suffice to say that this is a menace that shows no sign of abating. Hence, all we can do is remind investors of the Latin phrase, Caveat Emptor - Let the Buyer Beware.

Another investor mistake and this is a self-induced one is to forget all about one's Asset Allocation plan and the need to undertake re-balancing when the markets swing to either extreme. Resultantly, many investors panicked and simply bailed out of their SIPs as well as in certain extreme cases all their equity investments in the month of March this year. At the worst possible time, mind you. And now, when equities have rebounded sharply, many are resisting the logical act of re-balancing by moving a notch or two lower on the risk ladder even while continuing to ride the tide. No prizes for guessing how this will eventually play out for such investors.

Half-baked knowledge based on some random readings is potentially a weapon of wealth destruction in the market. A few years ago, I was bemused once to meet a market participant who flew down from Bangalore to meet me with a portfolio holdings sheet comprising around 350 stocks and mutual funds. He informed me that he followed some form of 'beverage can investing' he had read about and hence had 'diversified' his portfolio. Even as I politely informed him that while it was nice meeting him, there was little I could do to help such a 'learned' investor, he dropped a bombshell. He informed me that his wife, also an IT professional and avid market buff like him, had a portfolio of around 250 stocks and mutual funds.

And while on the point of mutual funds and stocks, there is no dearth of investors that swear they buy only blue-chip stocks and mutual funds. By blue-chip mutual funds they presumably mean large cap funds as per the regulator's categorization norms as they stand today. Clearly then, they are duplicating what the fund manager of the mutual fund scheme they have invested in is doing, defeating the very purpose of 'diversifying'.

And then, losing participants often complain that the markets are a harsh place where making money is very difficult. Guess why!

It's time to work on emergency funds

The pandemic has underscored the need to have cash reserves, but the amount depends on your financial needs

RAJAS KELKAR

AFTER shutting the world for six months, nations are unlocking their economies to stimulate activity. As you pull yourself together, you need to look at your finances. An emergency fund has to be your top priority. The crisis has underscored the need to have cash reserves of some kind in the bank. The amount of that reserve depends on you. It needs to be something you feel is good enough for six to eight months of expenses without an income.

To create such a cash reserve is a challenge for anyone. Most of the people have money locked into assets. Many have loans that they are servicing. To organise an emergency fund, you have to look at both assets and liabilities all over again.

Get in touch with a professional financial advisor as a first step. There is a lot you need to talk to him or her and create headroom for money that can stay in liquid funds or fixed deposits.

Assets

You bought physical assets like property, vehicles and gold with your income over the years. It may be a good idea to segregate your physical assets into need and want. Key learning from the lockdown is perhaps a realisation that your needs are fewer than your desires. If you own the house you live in, you cannot change much there. But if you have a second home that is given out on rent or kept as an investment, you may want to ask yourself a few questions. It may be a good idea to unlock value out of these and convert them into cash. Gold that is not jewellery and just an investment, you may want to cash out some. Many of you own two or three cars. You may want to reconsider your commuting needs in the context of social distancing and lockdowns.

The problem with assets is that they come with recurring maintenance. If your income is hurt, it is not possible to manage the upkeep of these assets. If you do not regularly clean your second or third home or manage your vehicles, you will spend more money on getting them fixed later.

The same applies to your financial assets.

You could have invested in multiple mutual fund schemes or unit-linked insurance policies when times were good. You may discuss with your financial advisor and reduce the number of funds you own. It is time to create an efficient portfolio. For every one individual in India, there are 4-5 folios and multiple schemes. Try to simplify your mutual fund investments.

If you own stocks, it is time to put your money into profit-making, dividend-paying companies only. Fundamentally strong businesses that can support growth in these trying times are likely to ride through the harsh economic environment. Try not owning too many stocks at this juncture.

Your investment in insurance may also need a clean-up. You took insurance policies that you did not need in the past but decided to help a friendly agent. You invested in the name of your children, wife or parents to park surplus funds. However, insurance is for protection. It is not an investment. Discuss with your financial advisor about adequate insurance for protection.

Liabilities

Your loans are your most significant liabilities. You cannot create any wealth till the time you owe money to people. An emergency fund could get wiped out if you have to dip into it to pay off your liabilities suddenly. Paying off high-cost loans must be a top priority. Pay off the total amount due immediately. Your loans carry a high-interest rate too. You may want to work on a plan after you are done with your credit cards.

On your home loans, it is a good idea to talk to your loan officer and renegotiate or reset the interest rate. Banks will not tell you about this. However, you need to fill up a form and submit it to your home loan servicing branch. For a nominal fee, you could reduce your home loan by up to two per cent. If you reduce your tenure instead of equated monthly instalments, that could save up a lot of money you would otherwise pay as interest.

Cutting your monthly expenditure on loans and other expenses can help create headroom for an emergency fund.

"The reasons for financial worries cited by consumers underpin the stress caused by financial management of lifestyle diseases. Alarmingly, over 50 per cent Indians are not sufficiently prepared to face any financial emergencies related to lifestyle diseases," according to a Financial Immunity survey by SBI Life. The survey, aimed at getting insights into consumer predispositions in a post Covid world, reveals that financial security against critical illnesses remains the top worry, with 75 per cent not prepared to deal with expenses arising out of critical illness. Family members getting Covid and insecurity around job were the other top worries of most of the respondents. It also revealed that for 62 per cent of the Indians, financial immunity is equivalent to being financially prepared to tackle any uncertainty related to life and health.

"The onslaught of coronavirus spread across the nation has made consumers more cognizant about their family's health, especially with regards to the importance of having the right financial products to combat unforeseen medical emergencies," the report said. Keeping in view the financial burden, the survey said that 61 per cent have bought or intend to buy critical illness plan cover to address the rising treatment costs and to avoid financial pressure on the family. "While the consumer's current state of financial preparedness towards any health emergency is inadequate, there is an encouraging newfound awareness on the need to build a robust Financial Immunity to safeguarded one's future," said Ravi Krishnamurthy, President, SBI Life. The survey, conducted along with Nielsen, reached out to over 2,400 consumers.

New rules extend flexible security framework to credit, debit card users

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

AFTER having been stalled by the outbreak of the Covid-19 pandemic and subsequent disruptions, the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) card security enhancement reforms have finally gone into effect from the first of this month. The new rules change several aspects of India's credit and debit card system, and allow customers far more control over transactions that may be performed with a particular card.

The central bank had first issued the new guidelines in January 2020 with a mid-March deadline for implementation. However, post the Covid outbreak, the deadline was extended twice—first to June 16, and then to October 1. However, these rules are applicable on all new debit and credit cards to be issued, but not on prepaid gift cards or those issued for use on mass transit systems.

"Over the years, the volume and value of transactions made through cards have increased manifold. (These changes are being made) to improve user convenience and increase the security of card transactions," the RBI said in a statement.

Existing cards which have never been used for online (card not present)/ international/contactless transactions shall be mandatorily disabled for this purpose

RBI notification

Among the most prominent changes is that customers can now switch off, or switch on, any particular facility on their cards at will—such as ATM transactions or online payments. The ability to customise the utility of the card will allow account holders to be far more flexible in how they manage risk. All new cards will also now have only domestic transactions at ATMs and PoS machines enabled on default. If a customer requires international, online or contactless transactions enabled for the first time, they will need to specifically choose to do so—no new card will have these facilities enabled by default. Customers will also have the ability to set their own transaction limits for all types of transactions.

RBI has directed banks to provide a 24x7 mechanism for customers to exercise these new options offered to them. "Issuers shall provide to all cardholders the above facility on a 24x7 basis through multiple channels—mobile application; internet banking; ATMs; Interactive Voice Response (IVR)—this may also be offered at branches / offices," it said. Alerts must also be mandatorily sent over SMS or email whenever any change is made to the card's status, it added. Since these rules only cover cards issued beginning October 31 onwards, the RBI has left it to the banks to take a decision on whether to re-issue older cards "based on their risk perception".

Proper bookkeeping can help in saving money

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

AT a time when many small and medium enterprises (SMEs) are already struggling to remain afloat, it is important that these firms have updated financial records to avoid more losses in the future, say experts.

"There are a lot of advantages of having an updated financial records such as ensuring SMEs meet their tax obligation, provide a clearer picture of business's financial well-being and also help them to earn and save more money. These are the major reasons behind proper bookkeeping that will result in avoiding potential penalties, fees and unnecessary costs, find opportunities to save money and help you to make better decisions when it comes to managing their businesses," said Rajesh Gupta, Co-Founder and Director, BUSY Accounting Software. He adds that while the three-year-old GST was considered to be a game-changer, there are still many challenges for businesses and end consumers. "MSMEs are still unclear about the practices and measures of the GST tax regime...The major hurdle faced by the business owners in GST Compliance is that the Invoice number / Invoice amount / Tax Rate / Tax Amount that the purchaser has recorded does not match with seller, invoice received in GSTR 2A. This issue invites a hefty penalty and makes things even more problematic for these firms," said Gupta.

When asked about the solution his firm provides, Gupta said that some of its powerful features include the BUSY mobile app which connects with real-time data (approx. 50K D/L), BDEP (Business Data Exchange Platform) to exchange invoices electronically, BUSY BNS App (Business Notification Service) (Approx. 15K D/L), BUSY agent for auto backup & dongle server in both SQL / Access mode, User Controls to keep the user at the top of their business, Complete GST Module (Configurable GST Billing, GSTR Filing, GST Summary and Reporting), Multi-location Inventory, Multi-company Accounting, etc. Currently, BUSY has 3.5 lakh users worldwide and it is targeting over 4 lakhs users by the end of this fiscal.

IRDAI mulls drone insurance framework

New Delhi: A working group set up by regulator IRDAI has recommended a broad policy framework and procedure for providing insurance cover to the drone industry and also suggested various risks associated with the use of Remotely Piloted Aircraft Systems. The working group, set up by the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) in June, noted that noted that the Indian drone ecosystem is in nascent stages and is finding more usage in various sectors at a slower pace.

CEOs indicate revival in biz sentiment: CII

New Delhi: The CEOs of top 115 companies who met at CII's National Council earlier this week indicated revival of business sentiment and a gradual rise in expected corporate performance in a poll, raising hopes that a steady recovery of India's economy is on the anvil. "A steady recovery of the Indian economy is on the anvil as corporate India restarts business and economic activity with lockdowns being increasingly relaxed in many parts of the country," industry chamber CII said.

Banks roll out tempting festive offers to revive credit growth

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Chennai

HOPING for some festive cheer, banks have begun hawking their special festive offers to lure Indians to resume borrowing and make big purchases.

While State Bank of India (SBI) has announced to waive off processing fees for customers applying for a car, gold, and personal loans through the bank's YONO app. Additionally, it is also offering a 0.10 per cent rebate on interest to potential home buyers with good credit scores. SBI is providing gold loans at an interest rate of 7.5 per cent, with flexible repayment options for up to 36 months. Similarly, HDFC Bank is giving 1000 special offers under its 'Festive Treats' scheme where it is giving relaxations on processing fee and EMIs along with cashbacks and gift vouchers. The private bank has also tied up with several big brands to give special deals. Bank customers can avail discounts up to 30 per cent as per the claims made by it.

Analysts say loan growth may still languish

The growth in bank credit in the past few years was mainly led by retail, specifically discretionary spending. This year, however, the situation is different and as such rating agency Icra has cut their expectation of loan growth in FY21 to a mere 2-3% from the previous expectation of 6-7%.

Meanwhile, ICICI Bank is also giving discounts on processing fees for home loans along with home loan offers at lower EMIs on fresh loans or on transferring the loan balance of other banks. ICICI Bank customers too will be able to avail discounts and cashback via the bank's tie-ups with brands across categories such as electronics & gadgets, apparels & jewellery, automobiles and wellness, among others.

Anup Bagchi, Executive Director at ICICI Bank said, "With the onset of the festive season, we have put together a wide range of offers for our customers. With this, we believe that our customers will get the best-in-class offers to celebrate their festivities, even while they are indoors or maintaining safe distancing."

Recent reforms to ensure long-term growth

New Delhi: Important structural reforms undertaken by the government to combat risks associated with the coronavirus pandemic will strengthen India's economic fundamentals and ensure long-term sustained growth, the monthly economic report prepared by the Economic Affairs Department of the Finance Ministry said. "The pandemic is far from over. Yet, the declining positivity rate at all-India level sets the stage to further push up the frontiers of economic recovery," it added. Major structural reforms in agriculture markets, labour laws and definition of MSMEs provide unparalleled opportunity for resilient MSMEs.

Kitata stuns Kipchoge, wins London Marathon

LONDON: Eliud Kipchoge's four-year winning run at the London Marathon ended Sunday as Shura Kitata emerged from the rain and the gloom to become the new champion. There was no upset in the women's race with world record holder Brigid Kosgei winning the title.

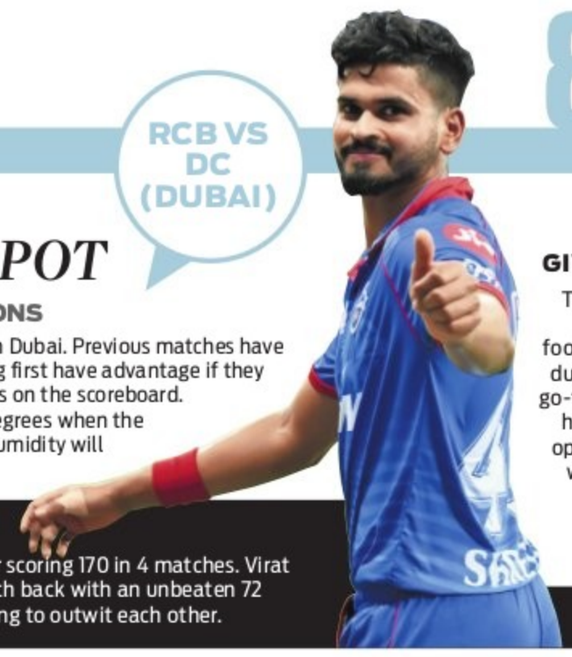
BATTLE FOR TOP SPOT

RCB VS DC (DUBAI)

Both Bangalore and Delhi are in good form with three wins each from four matches so far. The team winning the contest in Dubai on Monday will occupy the top spot on the points table. A few talking points...

PITCH & CONDITIONS

The match will be ninth in Dubai. Previous matches have shown that teams batting first have advantage if they put up more than 160 runs on the scoreboard. Temperature will be 35 degrees when the match begins while the humidity will cross 60 per cent.



LEADING FROM THE FRONT

Delhi skipper Shreyas Iyer has led from the front so far scoring 170 in 4 matches. Virat Kohli though has had ordinary outings but got his touch back with an unbeaten 72 against RR. Come Monday, the Indian duo will be hoping to outwit each other.

PACE BATTERY GIVES DELHI EDGE

Though both the teams are almost on equal footing, Delhi edge ahead due to their pacers. Their go-to man Kagiso Rabada has been brilliant in the opening and death overs while Anrich Nortje has come good against Chennai and Kolkata claiming five wickets.

1900

Delhi Capitals' Rishabh Pant (1870) and Shreyas Iyer (1851) can cross 1900-run career mark in IPL if they continue their form from the previous match.

849

Virat Kohli with 849 runs is the leading scorer whenever the teams played each other.

CHENNAI ARE SUPER KINGS AGAIN

Dhoni & Co end three-match losing streak, return to winning ways with a 10-wicket win over Punjab

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THERE are two simple ways to react to a string of defeats. One is to change the combination and hope that the playing XI clicks. Another, which is not preferred by many teams, is to back the players, who have delivered in the past, even if they underperform for a few matches and hope they deliver.

While Kings XI Punjab took the first approach, Chennai Super Kings did the latter — as expected — when the bottom-dwellers met on Sunday. Coming into match in Dubai with three losses from four matches, both teams were desperate for wins. KL Rahul-led side made three changes with Mandeep Singh, Harpreet Brar and Chris Jordan replacing Karun Nair, K Gowtham and Jimmy Neesham respectively. The three-time champions, who don't like to chop and change unless the situation forces them to, remained unchanged. And their decision proved to be right as MS Dhoni & Co chased down the target of 179 with all wickets intact.

Punjab won the toss and elected to bat first with the real test for both the teams coming in the second innings. Rahul & Co have lost the plot mostly at the death despite their openers having scored more than 500 runs between them, while Chennai's slow start and underperforming batting line up being a cause of concern.

On Sunday, they had a reason to be relieved. Opener Shane Watson repaid the team management's faith by scoring an unbeaten 53-ball 83. It was exactly what the in-form Faf du Plessis needed — a batsman to support him at the top and carry forward the momentum. The South African also joined the party, scoring 87 off 53 balls.

Earlier, Rahul led from the front to help the team reach 178/4. With his 18th IPL fifty, the skipper tops the batting chart with 302 runs. Despite losing opener Mayank Agarwal for 26 in the ninth over, Mandeep Singh and Nicholas Pooran's cameo made sure Punjab posted a decent total.

Brief scores: KXIP 178/4 in 20 ovs (Rahul 63) lost to CSK 181/0 in 17.4 ovs (Du Plessis 87 n.o, Watson 83 n.o).

Mumbai Indians enjoy Hyderabad sunset

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

IT WAS the perfect day in the office for Mumbai Indians. Defending even a two-hundred plus total is never easy at the Sharjah Cricket Stadium, but Mumbai Indians produced a clinical display with both the bat and ball to make short work of Sunrisers Hyderabad. Rohit Sharma's men managed to secure a comprehensive 34-run victory as they secured back-to-back victories.

What would delight them is the fact that they are firing as a unit and are getting contributions from various members of the team and it is a collective effort which coincidentally was missing for Sunrisers on Sunday.

Playing at Sharjah, which is a batsman's paradise and a bowler's graveyard, the focus was always going to be on the likes of Rohit Sharma, Kieron Pollard, Jonny Bairstow and David Warner.

In all the three matches of this year's IPL played at the venue prior to this game, both sides have managed to cross the 200-run mark and Mumbai who chose to bat first after winning the toss posted 208/5 from 20 overs followed the trend. And a lot of credit goes to their bowlers who managed to restrict Hyderabad to 174/7 from 20 overs.

Brief scores: Mumbai 208/5 in 20 ovs (De Kock 67) bt Hyderabad 174/7 in 20 ovs (Warner 60) .

EXPRESS TRENDS @venkatatweets

DESERT MENU: SWEET & SOUR

The IPL is only into its third week in the UAE but there have already been some visible trends. Here's a look at some of them

NEW FACES

No player has began his IPL career with three fifties from four matches and that speaks volumes about the 20-year-old Devdutt Padikkal. One of the most promising players in the domestic circuit, the IPL has shown the world he is indeed a player to watch out for in the future. The other uncapped Indian players who have put up impressive performances include Ravi Bishnoi (KXIP), Priyam Garg (SRH) and Kamlesh Nagarkoti (KKR).

RUNS GALORE

Before the IPL began, all things pointed to a low-scoring tournament, thanks to the conditions in the UAE. However, Sharjah and Dubai have turned into high-scoring venues with the former especially witnessing 200-plus totals in all the matches. In fact, Rajasthan Royals successfully chased the highest-ever IPL total at Sharjah with small boundaries proving to be a nightmare for bowlers.

NO RRR PRESSURE

On placid tracks, teams have deployed the age-old method of keeping wickets in hand to ensure late surge. And barring CSK, it has worked for all the teams. Teams have not panicked despite the required run-rate peaking to 18 runs per over in the last four overs. In some cases, teams batting first have also used the method to go big at the death.

DROPPED CATCHES

Call it less match practice in the last six months or blame the lights, this IPL has seen many dropped catches with some matches even seeing three being dropped in an innings. In Dubai, fielders have appeared to lose track of the ball when it goes high up in the air as the lights are placed on the roof of the top tier. Moreover, the LED screens placed above the boundary fence have also not helped.

Coach Kuttappa happy with boxers' progress

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

DURING these uncertain times, Indian male boxers have been diligently training at NIS, Patiala, for the last few months. As reported by this daily last month, the boxers are hoping for an exposure tour. National chief coach CA Kuttappa revealed his wards have made solid progress in the camp so far and underlined the importance of competitive boxing.

"This phase is vital for us. If we get the exposure tour, it will be a boost. One cannot prepare for Olympics in the last few months. We usually have a four-year plan for Olympics. When the Olympics was originally slated for 2020, we were highly active during 2019. So we cannot do without much competition ahead of 2021 Olympics," Kuttappa told this daily.

Several meetings among coaches and Boxing Federation of India (BFI) have been conducted in the past few months in regards to foreign tour for training and competition. The Sports Authority of India (SAI) will have the final say on that matter and the boxers' immediate future is likely to be decided in a day or two. If the proposal is accepted by SAI, the boxers are likely to head to Italy for training in mid-October and take part in a competition in France (Alexis Vastine International Boxing) at the end of the month (October 27-31). Santiago Nieva, men's high performance director, is currently at his home in Sweden and could join the team in Italy or else he's expected to be back in India by mid-October.

The Dronacharya awardee, on his part, has been rallying his wards to stay focussed and using every bit of his experience, along with the support staff, to keep the pugilists motivated. Recreational activities to cope with lean period has been one of the methods adopted by Kuttappa to keep his wards fresh."The boys have been doing well so far. They need motivation, so we want them to get this exposure tour. It goes without saying if your mindset is not right, the boxers would not be able to give their maximum during competitions including the Olympics. We have to stay positive."

Experienced ace Shiva Thapa (63 kg), Sumit Sangwan (81 kg) and Duryodhan Singh Negi (69 kg) are the latest boxers to join the camp which comprises of 13 boxers in total. With 2019 World Championships bronze medallist Manish Kaushik still recuperating from an injury, and Asian Championships (2021) in mind, the coaches thought it would be wise to bring in Shiva and give him much-needed practice. Duryodhan, on the other hand, has been brought in in the absence of Vikas Krishan, who's currently training in USA.

AFP @London

TEENAGERS Jannik Sinner and Iga Swiatek sent shockwaves through Roland Garros on Sunday, reaching their maiden Grand Slam quarterfinals, as 12-time champion Rafael Nadal breezed into the last eight for the 14th time.

Italy's Sinner, 19 and ranked 75, defeated sixth seed Alexander Zverev 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 to become the youngest men's Grand Slam quarterfinalist since Novak Djokovic in Paris in 2006.

His reward is a clash with Nadal who defeated American qualifier Sebastian Korda 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 to stay comfortably on course for a record-equalling 20th Grand Slam crown.

It was Nadal's 97th win at the tournament against just two defeats since his title-winning debut in 2005. World number 54 Swiatek, also 19, shocked top seed and title favourite Simona Halep 6-1, 6-2. Dominic Thiem beat wild card Hugo Gaston 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 3-6, 6-3 to book quarterfinal berth.

Covid patients at risk of blood clot in veins & lungs

NEW FINDINGS

LONDON: Researchers have found a high risk of deep vein thrombosis or venous thromboembolism (VTE) and pulmonary embolism (blood clot in lungs) in hospitalised patients suffering from Covid-19.

Deep vein thrombosis is a serious condition that occurs when a blood clot forms in a vein located deep inside your body. This condition is serious because blood clots can loosen and lodge in the lungs.

While hospitalised patients at general wards have a VTE risk between five and 11 per cent, the risk of developing deep vein thrombosis or pulmonary embolism in critically ill patients is 18 to 28 per cent, the study, published in the journal Research and Practice in Thrombosis and Haemostasis, reported.

"From the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic, studies reported an increased rate of thrombosis and pulmonary embolism in patients with Covid-19," said study author Cihan Ay from the Medical University of Vienna in Austria.

"Our study now offers a better understanding of the underlying risk and, therefore, aids in individual treatment decisions based on accurate risk assessment for the different patient groups," Ay added.

For the findings, the research team assessed a total of 5,951 studies published in the field of VTE in Covid-19.

Of those, 86 studies were found eligible for inclusion and reported rates of thrombosis and pulmonary embolism in Covid-19 patients.

After excluding additional studies due to underlying risk of bias in a structured assessment, 66 studies (28,173 patients) were found eligible to perform a meta-analysis to provide a robust estimate on risk of VTE in Covid-19.

The main findings are as follows: the overall VTE risk in hospitalised patients with Covid-19 is 14 per cent, despite rigorous thromboprophylaxis regimens in most studies. Further, high heterogeneity in VTE rates was found between different patient subgroups.

From the beginning of the COVID-19 pandemic, studies reported an increased rate of thrombosis and pulmonary embolism in patients with Covid-19. On the basis of these reports, but without robust evidence from controlled interventional studies, global treatment strategies were developed, recommending more intense thromboprophylaxis strategies

Cihan Ay, Medical University of Vienna

The rate was highest in patients admitted to intensive care units, with 23 per cent of patients suffering VTE.

Patients admitted to general wards suffered VTE in 8 per cent of the cases. These findings underline the high risk of VTE in Covid-19 patients.

In addition, the authors specifically focused on estimating the risk of potentially life-threatening pulmonary embolism.

"This risk is considerably higher than in other comparable serious medical illnesses and ranges between 10 and 18 per cent in Covid-19 patients requiring intensive care.

In addition, the exploratory analysis revealed that patients who developed deep vein thrombosis or pulmonary embolism during hospitalisation had significantly higher D-dimer concentrations at admission, a laboratory parameter that indicates an activated coagulation system.

These findings underscore the strong impact of Covid-19 on the blood-clotting system.

FACT OF THE MATTER

New Covid-19 test method

LOW COST

Scientists have developed a new method of testing for Covid-19 that doesn't make use of key reagents, but still delivers an accurate result, an advance that may lead to an inexpensive diagnosis technique in developing countries where chemical supplies are in short supply. The method, described in PLOS Biology, omits the step in the widely used reverse transcription polymerase chain reaction (RT-PCR) test where the scarce reagents are needed, but has an accuracy of 92 per cent, missing only the lowest viral loads. The researchers, including those from the University of Washington in the US, tested the new method using 215 Covid-19 samples that RT-PCR tests had shown were positive, with a range of viral loads, and 30 that were negative. Its low cost and efficiency could extend testing capacity to groups not currently being tested, said Jason Botten senior author of the study.

LG's 'Wing' out on Tue

DUAL SCREEN PHONE

LG Electronics said on Sunday that its new dual-screen smartphone The Wing will go on sale in South Korea this week as the tech firm aims to boost its handset sales amid the pandemic. The Wing will hit local shelves on Tuesday, with a price tag of $940, according to LG. In the US, the Wing will be released on October 15. LG already announced there would be no pre-order reservations for the Wing, reports Yonhap news agency. The Wing, which was unveiled on September 14, is highlighted by its two separate displays, with the main screen swivelling 90 degrees horizontally to reveal a secondary screen under it and creating a T-shape design. It is equipped with "gimbal motion camera" technology with six motion sensors, which gives a great level of stabilization especially when users shoot videos with the device. It packs a 4,000mAh battery.

AI editor for Google Photos

HELPFUL SUGGESTIONS

NEW DELHI: Google has rolled out a new, more helpful editor in the Photos app on Android with smart suggestions and easy-to-use granular adjustments.

Google has added a new tab in the editor that uses machine learning to give people suggestions that are tailored to the specific photo they are editing. The suggestions help people get stunning results in just one tap, by intelligently applying features like brightness, contrast and portrait effects.

"You'll see some familiar suggestions like Enhance and Colour Pop, and in the coming months, we'll add more suggestions to Pixel devices to help your portraits, landscapes, sunsets and more really stand out," Google said in a statement.

Several suggestions will show the specific edits that changed the photo, allowing people to customise further. The new editor makes it easy to find and apply granular edits, like brightness, contrast, saturation, warmth and more.

Zika virus underreported in 2015 epidemic: Study

DISEASE SURVEILLANCE

LONDON: More than 100 million infections of Zika virus within Central and South America and the Caribbean went undetected between 2015 and 2018, a new study claims.

The research, published in PLOS Neglected Tropical Diseases, said the results showed a need for improvement in the current infectious disease surveillance systems.

"Fewer than 1 per cent of cases were actually reported and it shows our surveillance systems catch only a small percentage of actual infections," said study's lead author Sean Moore from the University of Notre Dame in the US.

The first confirmed case of Zika in the Americas was reported in Brazil in 2015, with the infection spreading rapidly, reaching as far north as Florida and Puerto Rico.

The Pan American Health Organization, which serves as an international agency for the Americas and as a regional office of the WHO, totalled symptomatic infections of Zika at more than 8,00,000 between 2015 and 2018, a number far below the results of the study.

The team estimated 132.3 million infections across Latin America and the Caribbean, having collected data from 15 countries and territories in the regions, with a combined total population of 507.1 million.

"Between 20 per cent and 50 per cent of Zika infections are asymptomatic. Even when symptoms are present, they tend to be mild, so if the infection is not severe enough for an individual to seek medical attention, those cases can go undiagnosed," Moore added.

Jewish passport invalid

On this day in 1938, the Reich Ministry of the Interior invalidated all German passports held by Jews. They became valid only after the letter 'J' was stamped on them

SEPARATION

The government required Jews to identify themselves in ways that would permanently separate them from the rest of the German population

MIDDLE NAMES

In August 1938, a decree was issued forcing Jews to adopt the middle name 'Israel' for men and 'Sara' for women. It applied to Germans & stateless Jews

POLISH ACTION

The Nazi regime ordered the arrest of around 17,000 Jews with Polish citizenship who were living in the German Reich. They were then expelled and transported to Polish border

At a time when Bollywood actresses are being bashed up, designer Laxmi Krishna has created a skirt with images of popular stars, which is her tribute to the tinsel town celebs

STORIES ON FABRIC

Monika Monalisa

Bollywood has been in the limelight for wrong reasons. And mostly women being pulled-up has raised eyebrows. In her attempt to show support to women of Bollywood, designer Laxmi Krishna has created a design – a black and white flared skirt, which is her tribute to Bollywood actresses. With so much Bollywood bashing happening around in the public domain, Krishna hopes to spread some positivity through her design. "It does not matter what anyone says, I love movies and those who work in them. This was my way to remind everyone of some of the incredible work these actors have done and a small attempt at spreading joy," says Krishna. This is part of her newly-launched series.

The skirt has printed images of Parveen Babi, Smita Patil, Madhuri Dixit, Priyanka Chopra, and will be flaunted by actor Radhika Naryan of Shivaji Surathkal fame. "Her tall frame, I thought, would fit my look perfectly," says Krishna, who has worked with various Sandalwood stars.

A dress, head gear and neckpiece, all from the same fabric might sound a bit odd to many, but not for Krishna whose selfies depict how fabric can be used in a more versatile way. Known for her quirky designs, Krishna has always been in love with any sort of fabric, trying to come up with something which is trendy and out of the box. The catalogue also shows a retro look, where Narayan is donning a red and white polka dotted saree along a blouse with a big bow, teaming it up with headgear made from the same fabric. The look is a modern take on yesteryear actor Mumtaz's famous look in the movie, Brahmachari. "How can someone not love retro!" exclaims Krishna. "Speaking about sustainable fashion, that era followed the philosophy without terming it something particular," she says, adding that her entire look was made from one fabric.

"At this point, people are constantly cleaning their clothes and jewellery. So much so that the cleaning has started affecting the jewels. That does not mean you have stop accessorising or dressing up, you just need to be more innovative with ideas," says Krishna, who is busy with her upcoming project in the Telugu movie industry. Because of times like these, she has currently come out with jewellery from fabric which is easily washable. "It can be teamed with both contemporary and ethnic," Krishna explains.

I want to pursue higher studies in London. The move will help me race more. Because it doesn't get better than being in the hub of motorsports
—Yash Aradhya, motorsport athlete

Racing ahead

Express Features

It's been almost a year since Yash Aradhya got to sit behind a wheel. The young motorsport athlete couldn't be more excited about his participation at the The FIA Formula 4 French. Having completed his first race between October 2 and 4, the 18-year-old now has three more races to go on between October 16 and 18, November 6-8 and November 13-18, across France. If all had gone well, the Bengaluru teenager would have made it to France for the first three rounds, but he was unable to do so due to delay in visas. "But now that I have made it, I'm excited," says Aradhya, a Class 12 student at Bishop Cotton Boys' School.

Though the last race he took part in was in November 2019, Aradhya hasn't left any chance to burn some rubber. He has been visiting Meco Kartopia on Hennur Bagalur Road to stay regular with his practise. Having arrived in France on September 29, Aradhya quickly tried out a simulator test to acquaint himself with the new tracks at the Paul Ricard circuit in Le Castellet, France. The tournament is being organised by the French Federation of Motor Sport Auto Sport Academy (FFSA Academy), under the aegis of The Federation Internationale De'l Automobile (FIA).

Aradhya, who is also the first Indian motorsport talent to receive the Pradhan Mantri Bal Shakthi Puraskar in January this year, discovered his love for speed at the age of nine. Having raced in a number of events since then, it doesn't take him long to share which one has been the most memorable one for him — a race at Lahari Resorts, Hyderabad. During the race, Aradhya, who was 100m away from the black and white chequered flag, was bumped from behind by another racer, leading him to drop from first to last place. "It was painful to see that happen but it also made my drive to win the next race with a much stronger intensity. That's exactly what happened in the next race," recalls Aradhya, who has raced in international events taking place in Germany, Belgium, Italy, Malaysia and The Netherlands.

Currently alone in France, the youngster is spending his time between racing and studying, as he prepares for his examinations, which begin on October 8. A follower of strict timetables, the student is hoping to get good grades that will earn him admission in a university in London next year. "I want to study Business Management or Economics. The move will also help me race more. Because it doesn't get better than being in the hub of motorsports," he says.

Of women and wellness

Express Features

The pandemic has driven home an important realisation: Looking after one's wellness is key in these times. The Women's Indian Chamber of Commerce and Industry (WICCI)'s launch of the Karnataka Wellness and Wellbeing Council couldn't have come at a better time. The council, which is being launched on Oct. 5, is an interactive hub between the government and women entrepreneurs in the wellness and wellbeing sectors of Karnataka.

"The pandemic has challenged businesses and communities with dire threat of lives and livelihoods. The government and private sector must actively support each other in these challenging times," says the council's president Dr Suchitra Kaul Misra, while also expressing her gratitude towards the founder of WICCI, Dr Harbeen Arora.

The public-private partnership initiative aims to provide equal opportunity for women in the wellness industry and empower them with policy making through representation of WICCI. As many as 22 women council members will be partnering initiatives with the Ministry of Ayush, BBMP, Bangalore Society of Obstetrics & Gynaecology, Nimhans and Jeevanansarthakathe. "Our council members, which is a team of 22 ladies includes experienced psychologists, doctors, psychiatrists, therapists, mentors and holistic healers. These are all compassionate women in wellness who want to make a difference to the lives of children, teenagers, young women and senior women in the community as well as women owned wellness businesses," says Misra.

The launch event, which coincidentally falls on World Sisterhood Day, will also celebrate 'Shakti Bandhan'. As part of this, the ladies will honour each other with a sacred thread, to denote the shakti flowing from one to another. Professor Veena Tirlapur, who is a member of the council and the HOD of Home Science at KLES Arts and Commerce College, Gadag, says, "We are not celebrating Shakti Bandhan as only a festival or an event, but also raising up our voice together on behalf of all women entrepreneurs who are lacking behind. Together we are converting our voice as 'Unity of Shakti'." A musical antakshari will also be conducted on the theme of positive emotions. That's not all. To mark the occasion of the WICCI launch, all council members are also undertaking a pledge for organ donation. WICCI is also supported by ALL Ladies League (ALL) and Women Economic Forum (WEF).

The launch will take place on October 5, 4.30pm. Zoom Meeting ID:2255895930; password: interact. You can also check the live event on facebook.com/WICCIWELLNESS/live/

ART ATTACK

Colours, canvas, connections

Express Features

When Siddharth Shingade looks at the paintings of his sixth solo show, currently on display on kynkyny.com, he sees more than just acrylic colours on canvas. "These works are a marker of my growth since my first solo show in 2008," says the 36-year-old artist, who resides in Mumbai. "If you look at my paintings, you'll notice a lot of earthy colours – grey, brown and dull colours. I didn't have the confidence to play with blue, red and yellow," he explains. And yet, some of the works on display at the online gallery sport just the colours the artist has been afraid of. "It took a lot of experimenting to build up this confidence," he adds.

All the 21 works on display have been created in 2020 but form a part of different themes. For example, the painting 'Banjaras', looks at the plight of migrant workers during the lockdown. 'Goverdhan', on the other hand, is a recreation of the tale of Krishna holding up a hillock to save the residents of Vrindavan. The one with a special place in his heart, however, is called 'Toy Seller Couple'. "It shows a couple at the doorstep of a house in a village, selling their goods. Having grown up in a village for 20 years, my memories of that life finds a place in my work too. The doors in the painting depict different scenes of the village life," says Shingade, who grew up in Maharashtra's Tuljapur. "I don't see the same village culture anymore. Rural areas now resemble cities so this is my way of preserving the culture," he explains. While about 11 of these works have been sold, the rest are still on sale, in prices ranging from ₹20,000 to over ₹3 lakh.

One among four siblings, Shingade was the only one who took to art, having been inspired by his uncle who was an artist. Post his Class 12, he moved to Mumbai and attained a diploma from Sir J J School of Art, and another from L S Raheja School of Art, Mumbai.

In the past, if one were to ask Shingade about his inspirations, the artist had varied answers: Western and Indian counterparts, stories, events, and so on. But today, his response is different. "I find my own work inspiring. Sometimes, I can't believe the works I've done in the past and try to copy them again. Even when I'm not working, I like to spend time with my works and talk to them," says the artist, adding, "The happiness I get from art is unparalleled to any other."

The exhibition is on kynkyny.com till October 15.

The years between '01 and '07 were a struggle. I put in 15 hours of work daily. Now, my work is my identity and I'm glad I gave it my all back then

BABY YODA FOR COMPANY

In The Mandalorian, Baby Yoda pops up in places where grown men fear to tread, and faces danger with a wisdom beyond his years. Perhaps it was the outsized courage of the diminutive Disney hero that inspired one big-hearted little boy to tap the foot-tall green toddler from a galaxy far away for a perilous but crucial assignment. When Carver and his grandmother, Sasha Tinning, were putting together supplies to send to first responders battling California's wildfires, the 5-year-old spotted a plush toy Baby Yoda on a shelf. Whether he truly understood the exhausting emotional toll tirelessly fighting the devastating infernos was taking on fire crews, Carver's course of action was clear — he wanted to help and uplift spirits. Along with his grandmother's help and a handwritten note that read: "Thank you, firefighters. Here is a friend for you, in case you get lonely <3 Love, Carver". He sent Baby Yoda on a mission of comfort and care to the front lines. Highlights of his exploits have even been chronicled on his own 'Baby Yoda fights fires' Facebook page.

FIT BIT

URDHVA PRASARITA EKAPADASANA

(ONE FOOT EXPANSING UPWARD POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'urdhva' means 'upward', 'prasarita' means 'expanded', 'eka' means 'one', 'pada' means 'foot' or 'leg', and 'asana' means 'pose'. It is a balancing inversion that stretches and strengthens the legs, calms the mind, and improves balance, concentration and coordination. This asana stimulates the Muladhara (root) and Svadisthana (spleen or sacral) chakras. Activating these chakras makes the practitioner feel rooted, connected and balanced. In its fullest expression, it can also energise the Sahasrara (crown) chakra, which soothes and clears the mind. The practitioner should focus on directing equal energy into both legs.

STEPS

- Stand in Tadasana.
- Exhale and bend your trunk forward. With your left hand, catch the back of your right ankle. Rest your right hand on the floor by the side of your right foot. Place your head or your chin on the right knee.
- Lift the left leg as high up as possible. Tighten both knees. Keep the toes of the lifted leg pointed upwards.
- Your legs should remain straight so that the toes point straight ahead and do not tilt sideways.
- Stay in the pose for about 20 seconds, with even breathing.
- Inhale, bring your left leg down to the ground and come back to Tadasana.
- Repeat the pose on the other side, keeping the left leg on the ground and the right leg up in the air. Stay in the pose for 20 seconds.

BENEFITS

- Stretches your shoulder, abdomen and spine muscles that help to improve the blood flow in this area.
- Helps reduce the back pain and prevent the risk of injury in the shoulder, abdomen and spine.
- Due to an increase in blood flow to the brain, it gets more oxygen and vital nutrients.
- Helps open the chest muscles that helps improve the blood circulation.
- Blood flow to sexual organs improves, hence helps increase sexual performance.
- Helps reduce the fat from the belly region.
- Improves the function of livers and kidney.
- Strengthens calves, ankle and hamstrings muscles.
- Helps reduce stress and anxiety.
- Very essential for our brain and it also helps to calm the mind.

LIMITATIONS

- Those suffering from high or low blood pressure, migraine, lower back pain, hip, ankle, knee and shoulder injuries should avoid this.
- Breathe deeply for each step.
- Don't force yourself to perform the full standing split immediately.

How to derive inspiration IRL

SHARANYA MANIVANNAN
@RANYAMANIVANNAN
The Chennai-based author writes poetry, fiction & more

In the final instalment of a popular advice column, the journalist Oliver Burkeman listed out eight learnings that he believes are the secrets to a happy life. One of these points begins, "The capacity to tolerate minor discomfort is a superpower". In the paragraphs that explain what this means, an aside jumped at me: "This is how social media platforms flourish: by providing an instantly available, compelling place to go at the first hint of unease." How true this is — a tire punctures, and we tell the world. A mosquito buzzes us awake, and we tell the world. Then, we stare at the screen as we wait for whatever proceeds next IRL, watching our notifications as we do.

IRL — "in real life". I think I encounter this acronym less often than earlier, possibly because the demarcation is no longer as clear. Social media is also life, now. Real life, with real stakes. This is despite knowing that online platforms are not the world. They are always only a bubble, or a tightly knit cluster of bubbles, one that we used to believe was self-curated but increasingly understand is based on algorithmic dictations as well as agendas with money and power behind them.

We understand this, we do, but we frequently behave exactly how the system coaxes us to. Hardly a day goes by when one's entire timeline isn't talking about the same topic. When it's a major event, cataclysmic or otherwise, this makes sense. But sometimes it's literally about picking an arbitrary target and then — like those little creatures trailing each other off a cliff in the Lemmings game from the early '90s, inspired by the myth (aka "fake news") that real lemmings die en masse this way — following the designed flow. Some days, people lose hours to dissecting another random individual's equally random opinion. Later, each party's personality becomes set in stone: there's the person who fleetingly expressed a fatuous idea, and may it never be forgiven, and there's the hero whose hot take made that original thought go viral for everyone else's self-righteous responses and ridicule.

This has an impact on our daily well-being and ability to think holistically, and over time it becomes dangerous on larger levels. Let's take a hypothetical situation, wherein someone with a talent for making anything about themselves leverages on some incident and begins to spin a narrative around it, drawing in more and more people and implicating them all. Soon, organisations, institutions, the press and more get involved and...

Oh, that's not a hypothetical situation? Yeah, I know.

This is our cue to derive inspiration from some of the pettier people we know, IRL. You know the frenemies who somehow never hear about any good that comes your way, but always ferret out every tiny trigger and criticism and personally ensure that you're aware of it? That superpower for acknowledging and talking about only what serves them is something to learn from, and selectively use. When we do this, we can also ask, each time we get distracted by some concocted drama: what is being made to disappear from view because my attention is not there now?

Mohita Ponappa from Darjeeling uses fresh, local ingredients to prepare Himalayan dishes under her brand Swadilo, which is Nepali for delicious. "I'm a mountain girl from the Queen of Hills and it has been my passion to cook and let people know the delectable food we have back home," says Mohita. Her menu of family recipes includes Chatamari, a Newari preparation of rice flour crepes topped with chunks of chicken, veggies and egg; Bara, a spiced lentil pancake; and, Sha Phaley, a fried Tibetan bread stuffed with minced meat or veggies. There's more on the menu, including Asian combo meals and signature Himalayan momos – steamed or fried with chilli garlic sauce along with Thukpa soupy noodles.

WOOING DINERS WITH GHAR KA KHANA

The popularity of the home chef food stems from regional cuisines, distinct homely flavours and small batch production, all with the added assurance of hygiene and a generous dose of TLC

The pandemic has thrown open an unexpected opportunity for budding chefs to fulfil their culinary dreams in addition to the hundreds and thousands of chefpreneurs around the country who have seen their enterprise thrive during the lockdown. The popularity of the home chef food stems from the regional cuisines on offer, distinct homely flavours and small batch production, all with the added assurance of hygiene and a generous dose of TLC. The ease of Whatsapp ordering, wide acceptance of e-wallet payments and the availability of hyperlocal delivery agents has helped bridge the gap between the chefs and loyal patrons.

Making time between his day job at Uber as a product designer, self-taught chef Anurag Arora gets busy in his Indiranagar kitchen on weekends and a few weekdays, cooking and packing orders ranging from Italian, Japanese and even sourdough bread. Earlier, Arora used to open his house terrace for sit-down dinner pop-ups which changed post the pandemic, making him focus on the delivery of simply cooked, yet distinctively delicious food. Some of his well-researched specialities include Ricotta Agnolotti with Chicken and Truffle Brodo, Tonkotsu Ramen, Neapolitan Pizzas, Dark Chocolate and Rum Pana Cotta with bitter coffee sauce and Canelés, a French pastry with a custard centre. In Arora's words, "My hope is that maybe you could create a new memory and experience eating my food which would be my absolute pleasure."

Beats from the heart

Shine Shetty with Sangeetha Rajeev

Bringing back the 90s' romantic Indian music, singer Sangeetha Rajeev is out with her latest project with Sonu Nigam called Neene Neena, which also stars Bigg Boss Kannada season 7 winner Shine Shetty. Premiered last week, the song has already gone viral with more six lakh views.

The song has a soothing pace with a feel-good tune, which will be perfect company for a long drive or even a lounge day at home. Calling it nothing less than a dream come true for her, Sangeetha just took a chance of getting in touch with Nigam for the song. "I never expected this. It was my dream to collaborate with him but I was not sure if he is going to agree to it or not. I just introduced my work and explained to him the meaning of the song and he agreed to do it," says Rajeev, adding that she wrote the song keeping Nigam's voice in mind. Rajeev wrote this song around two months ago and has been in touch with Nigam since then. Nigam was in Dubai and they had no proper recording set up, hence the project got delayed till he returned to Mumbai.

Nigam, who has sung some popular Kannada songs like Ninnindale from the movie Milana, Naanu Matthu Gunda title track and many more, he has always connected with people who speak the language. "Sonu sir is more Kannadiga than any of us. A man of such stature is humble and professional. He improvised on the composition and send me quite few a takes for me to choose," says Rajeev, adding that he also made a behind the scene video of how the song was recorded for the promotion.

Apart the audio, the video also showcases the chemistry between Shetty and Rajeev, while he was basking in the glory of his Bigg Boss win when the latter approached him for the music video. "For me, the highlight of the song was Sonu Nigam singing my part in the song," says Shetty. "We should put in more effort to make Kannada songs more popular. When the song Sanju mattu Geeta was out, I was in Mumbai then and made my non-Kannadiga friend listen to the song and he loved it. I am trying to make Kannada songs more popular around my circle," says Shetty.

SOULFUL

THE MIRROR OF RELATIONSHIP

We are together having a conversation, you as a separate human being, if you are separate at all, with the speaker. We are walking down a lane, wooded, plenty of shadows and birds singing and we sit down together and talk about the whole problem of existence, which is very complex. And as we are friends for a long time we have many days to talk over these things. And we are neither convincing each other about any subject. We are not trying to persuade each other, we are not trying to overcome the other through arguments or sticking dogmatically to one's own opinion, prejudices, but rather together – and I hope you are doing the same with me – together we are going to look at the world as it is and the world that is within us.

Many volumes have been written about the world outside of us: the environment, society, politics, economics, and so on but very few – as far as I know, and one may be mistaken – very few have gone to the very length of discovering what we actually are, why human beings are behaving as they are doing - killing each other, constantly in trouble with each other, following some authority or other – some book, some person, some ideal – and having no right relationship with their friends, with their wives, with their husbands and with their children. Why human beings have become after so many millennia so vulgar, so brutal, utterly lacking care, consideration, attention to others, and denying the whole process of what is considered love, if we at all have that quality.

And outwardly there are wars, which man has lived with wars for thousands and thousands of years. We are trying to stop nuclear war but we have never stopped wars. There has been no demonstration right in the world to stop wars, but they demonstrate against a particular war. And these wars have been going on; people being exploited, oppressed – and the oppressor becoming the oppressor. This is the cycle of human existence with sorrow, loneliness, a great sense of depression, the mounting anxiety, the utter lack of insecurity, and there is no relationship with society or with one's own intimate persons – a relationship in which there is no row, conflict, quarrels, oppression and so on. This is the world we live in – which I am sure we all know; or we are unaware of it, or we don't want to know. Most of us are unaware of what is actually happening. And the scientists, the biologists, the philosophers have their own separate existence apart from the rest of us. And throughout these millennia our brains are conditioned; conditioned by knowledge.

FRESH FACE ANJALI ANISH TO ENTER TINSEL TOWN WITH PADAVI POORVA

Anjali Anish

This young talent, a law student, will be making her debut in Hariprasad Jayanna's directorial debut, and is paired opposite Pruthvi Shamanur

A Sharadhaa

Anjali Anish will be the face of Hariprasad Jayanna's directorial debut Padavi Poorva. A Times Fresh Face of the year 2019, the 20-year-old talent who has walked the ramp will now be taking a plunge into acting. She will be paired opposite a new hero, Pruthvi Shamanur, who is from Davangere and is also a model.

Anjali, a model and law student, has also made her short stint in direction, and has worked as an assistant in three Kannada films. The newcomer is currently undergoing training at an intense workshop, along with the rest of the cast as the team gets ready to go on floors from the second week of November.

Padavi Poorva, which means 'pre-graduation' revolves around pre-university students. Hariprasad, an associate of Yogaraj Bhat has come up with a story that is based on friendship and romance, and is set in the late 90s against a college backdrop. Padavi Poorva is made under the banner of Yogaraj Movies and is produced by Bhatru and Ravi Shamanur. It will have Arjun Janya scoring the music and Santhosh Rai Pathaje handling the camera work.

'Drug problem exists in industry, but not everyone is involved'

CE Features

Akshay Kumar has broken his silence on the controversies surrounding Sushant Singh Rajput's death and the ongoing drug probe in Bollywood. In a video posted on Twitter, Akshay begins by addressing Bollywood's role in highlighting national sentiments. He then talks about the upheavals following Sushant's death, saying they have pained the industry as much as its fans.

"These issues have made us look into our own selves," Akshay says. "They have made us address the faults in the film industry that deserve our attention. On the talk about drugs and narcotics, I cannot lie to you that it does not exist in the industry. However, it cannot be that every person of every profession is involved in it."

Akshay adds that the use of drugs is a legal matter, saying he feels confident that the actions taken by the enforcement agencies and courts will be absolutely correct.

"I know that every member of the film industry will fully cooperate in the investigation. However, I request you with folded hands, do not look at the entire industry in the same light. This is not correct," he adds.

Alicia Vikander to shoot Tomb Raider 2 in 2021

CE Features

Oscar-winner Alicia Vikander says shootong for the much-awaited Tomb Raider 2 is expected to start in 2021.

Vikander, who took over the role from Angelina Jolie, made her debut as the globetrotting titular protagonist in 2018's Tomb Raider.

Sharing an update on the sequel, the 32-year-old Swedish star said in an interview that the plan for the film's shooting has been changed due to the coronavirus pandemic.

"The plan was for us to start making one this year. Of course, due to the [pandemic] situation, that's now very different. We're still in discussions about it, so I hope we can probably get to it next year," Vikander said.Roar Uthaug, who directed the first movie, is not coming back for the sequel, which will now be helmed by Ben Wheatley of Free Fire fame.

Vikander currently stars alongside Julianne Moore in The Glorias, a biopic on veteran journalist.

Billy Crudup in talks for Ezra Miller-starrer The Flash

CE Features

Actor Billy Crudup is in negotiations to return for Ezra Miller-starrer superhero feature The Flash.

Crudup, who recently won an Emmy for his performance in Apple's The Morning Show, will reprise his role as Barry Allen aka The Flash's father, a part he previously played in 2017's Justice League.

Andy Muschietti of It series fame will be tackling Warner Bros' troubled superhero feature, which has been in works since 2016.

Crudup was previously attached to The Flash four years ago, when Rick Famuyiwa was attached to direct. John Francis Daley and Jonathan Goldstein came aboard in March 2018, but then they left. Eventually, Crudup also left the project.

If finalised, he will join Ben Affleck and Michael Keaton, who are reprising their fan-favourite incarnations of Bruce Wayne/Batman.

Christina Hodson has penned the latest draft of the script that sees Flash go back in time to prevent the murder of his mother, an act that proves to have unintended consequences for his timeline.

FB slams Netflix, says The Social Dilemma is distorted

CE Features

While most of us loved the new Netflix documentary The Social Dilemma that shows how social media platforms treat users as a product and spreads misinformation, Facebook has come down heavily on the leading content streaming platform, saying it has buried the substance in sensationalism.

The social network slammed the documentary, stressing that it gives a distorted view of how social media platforms work to create a convenient scapegoat for what are complex societal problems. The seven-point rebuttal came as The Social Dilemma created waves globally for exploring the dangerous human impact of social networking, with tech experts sounding the alarm on their own creations. Denying that it treats users as a product, Facebook said it is an ads-supported platform, which means that selling ads allows it to offer everyone else the ability to connect for free.

"This model allows small businesses to compete with bigger brands by more easily finding new customers. But even when businesses purchase ads on Facebook, they don't know who you are," the company said in a statement. "We don't sell your information to anyone. You can always see the 'interests' assigned to you in your ad preferences, and if you want, remove them". The documentary from Jeff Orlowski tried to make a point that addiction and privacy breaches are the features, not bugs, of the social media platforms. Facebook said that it uses algorithms to improve the experience for people using its apps just like any dating app, Amazon, Uber, and countless other consumer-facing apps that people interact with every day.

"That also includes Netflix, which uses an algorithm to determine who it thinks should watch The Social Dilemma film, and then recommends it to them. This happens with every piece of content that appears on the service," the social network argued. For example, said Facebook, it uses algorithms to show content that's more relevant to what people are interested in, whether it's posts from friends or ads. "Portraying algorithms as 'mad' may make good fodder for conspiracy documentaries, but the reality is a lot less entertaining,a Facebook noted.

According to Facebook, the film's creators do not include insights from those currently working at the companies or any experts that take a different view to the narrative put forward by the film. "They also don't acknowledge - critically or otherwise - the efforts already taken by companies to address many of the issues they raise. Instead, they rely on commentary from those who haven't been on the inside for many years," Facebook emphasized.

Despite what the film suggests, Facebook said it has policies that prohibit businesses from sending it sensitive data about people, including users' health information or social security numbers.

Netflix is yet to comment on this. The documentary touches upon the failure on part of social media firms on maintaining election integrity, to which Facebook said that it did acknowledge that it made mistakes in the 2016 US presidential elections. "Yet the film leaves out what we have done since 2016 to build strong defences to stop people from using Facebook to interfere in elections. We've improved our security and now have some of the most sophisticated teams and systems in the world to prevent attacks," the social network argued.

The idea that we allow misinformation to fester on our platform, or that we somehow benefit from this content, is wrong, said Facebook. "We don't want hate speech on our platform and work to remove it, despite what the film says. While even one post is too many, we've made major improvements on this."
